Dewey Officiates at New Paltz Dedication

Governor Thomas E. Dewey, center, encourages teachers as he says "the dark ages" in their profession "are largely over," during the dedication of the $1,300,000 Student Union Building at the New Paltz State Teachers College. Flanking him are, left, President William Haggerty of the college and Dr. William S. Carlson, president of the University of New York.

LeFevre Names Residence Buildings

Jay LeFevre, left, former Representative of the 30th Congressional District, named six new residence buildings to honor the original patentee settlers of New Paltz during the college dedication program Saturday. LeFevre is now secretary of the Board of Visitors at the college. With LeFevre are Mrs. Dewey and Gov. Dewey. (Croom photos)

Teachers Are Told Dark Ages Over in Schools by Dewey

Ex-Congressman LeFevre Names Dormitories; Carlson Talks on Education

Speaking at the dedication of six residence halls and the College Union building at New Paltz State Teachers College Saturday, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said that "The dark ages concerning the teaching profession are largely over."

Elaborating, he said:

"It is no longer true that the teacher is one to be hired or fired at the caprice of a small group; it is no longer true that the community feels that it owns not only the services but the private life and the thinking of the teacher.

"For, in truth, the teacher has become a leader of thought, not only among children but among adults."

In an address prepared for dedication exercises of the $1,300,000 Student Union building, Dewey spoke of the future of education and said:

"We used to talk only about education of future leaders and that is as important as ever. Today we have to talk about educating a whole population because every decision and every action of government is known to the people as it never was before."

Break Library Ground

It was a big day at the college. In addition to the dedication of the residence halls and College Union building, ground was broken for a new $784,000 library building. In addition, it was annual Reunion Day for alumni and 700 places were set for the annual alumni luncheon. Harry Halverson, Kingston architect, designed the dormitories and the Student Union building.

Jay LeFevre, secretary of the board of visitors of the college, stated that at a meeting of the board of visitors July 9, 1951, it had been unanimously voted to name the new dormitory units after the patentees of New Paltz. This action, he said, was approved by the board of trustees of the State University and the members of the Dormitory Authority.

There were 12 original patentees, LeFevre pointed out, but only seven last names. The units were named as follows: Unit No. 1, named The Crispell House, for Antoine Crispell; Unit No. 2,

Barge Blast Kills 15 on Delaware

Oil Tanker and Gasoline Carrier Collide in Heavy Rainstorm on River

39 Survive

Flames, Smoke Cover Water for Hours After Explosion

Wilmington, Del., May 26 (AP)—A tanker loaded with crude oil and a gasoline-laden barge collided in a driving rain on the Delaware river 15 miles south of here last night, both exploding into flames that sent crewmen diving into the water.

Two men are reported dead, six missing and one injured crewman is in Wilmington General Hospital suffering from shock.

There were 39 survivors from the collision between the 10,441-ton tanker Michael and the 1,162-ton A. C. Dodge.

Hours after the collision near Reedy Island, orange flames and thick black smoke covered the surface of the water and filled the sky over a half mile area.

Minor Explosion

The Michael drifted to the New Jersey shore and ran up on a beach. The ship has a big hole at the water line of its starboard bow. Several coast guard vessels stood off shore watching the burning vessel. The smaller craft was almost completely submerged just off Augustine Beach near Fort Penn, Del. A few minor explosions were heard from the Dodge, from time to time.

One man, nude except for the life jacket which kept him afloat, died minutes after he was picked up by rescuers. He was not identified but was believed to be a crewman on the Dodge.

Two other men, also Dodge crew members, were rescued from the water and taken to Wilmington General Hospital suffering from burns and shock. One was identified as Sjur Tellifsen, 29, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

No Word of Six Men

There was no immediate word of the fate of the other six men aboard the Dodge.

The Michael, bound for Paulsboro, N. J., from Persia with a crew of 40, reported two men missing—the third mate and a seaman.

The collision was the third such tragedy within 10 days in this busy shipping area.

On May 15, two ships collided and burned in the nearby Delaware and Chesapeake canal, killing four men. Last week three men drowned when a freighter and tug smashed together in the Delaware near Chester, Pa.

Kelly Appeal Set June 2 in Albany

The appeal of the first degree murder conviction of Edward H. Kelly, formerly of Kingston, has been scheduled for hearing before the Court of Appeals in Albany at 2 p. m. on Monday, June 2, District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn has been notified.

Kelly was convicted in Ulster County Court in November, 1951, and was sentenced to die in the electric chair. Appeal was mandatory.

Attorney Whitman Knapp of New York will appear for Kelly at Monday's hearing. District Attorney Bruhn will appear for The People.

Kelly was first convicted on Sept. 29, 1950, of the murder of Eloise McHugh in May of that year on Main street in Kingston. The Court of Appeals subsequently threw out the conviction and ordered a new trial. The second trial, held last November, also resulted in conviction, and it is that second conviction that is being appealed.

Four Marlborough Men Are Injured In Trail Accident

Sheriff's Men Say Auto Overturned After It Hit Edge of Road; Caught Fire

Four Marlborough men returning from a fishing trip were injured, but apparently not seriously, when the automobile in which they were riding turned over and caught fire on the Onteora Trail one and a half miles west of Kingston on Sunday afternoon.

The sheriff's office listed the injured as: Gaston Nolin, 53, driver of the autombobile who received abrasions of the forehead, laceration of the nose and abrasions of both knees; Charles William Brown, about 40, laceration to right knee and abrasions; Charles Edward Brown, his son, age unavailable, cut eye lid, contusions and abrasions; and Vincent Guagliardio, abrasions of left knee.

The Injured

The injured were taken to Kingston Hospital in the hospital's ambulance, but all were released after treatment, the hospital reported this morning.

Investigation was by Under Sheriff Clayton Vredenburg; Arthur H. Brown, county investigator; Earl Conro, identification officer, and James Marano, deputy sheriff.

They reported the automobile was traveling toward Kingston and hit the edge of the highway near the intersection of the Hurley Mountain road, then overturned landing on its top on the guard rail.

The car caught fire, and a call relayed through the sheriff's office brought out Ulster Hose Company and an engine from Kingston's Wiltwyck Station, under Deputy Chief James Brett.

Car Total Wreck

The fire was out on arrival of firemen, having been extinguished by someone with sand, the fire department reported.

Although the fire itself did not cause much damage, the automobile was reported as a total wreck as a result of the accident, which occurred about 3:05 p. m.

Have Own Arms; 115 Prisoners Die in Hard Clashes

Koje Island, Korea, May 26 (AP)—UN hospital officials said today Red prisonrs of war treat each other with such barbarity that they have killed more prisoners than have allied guards in suppressing three POW riots.

Camp officials concede they do not have control inside the barbed wire enclosures. Red leaders have organized prisoners into a crude but disciplined army, equipped with stones, clubs and weapons fashioned from cans and metal bars. They also have pistols and rifles seized from guards in riots or bought from civilians.

Beat 115 to Death

At least 115 prisoners have died from brutal beatings, hangings or torture in clashes between die-hard Communists and anti-Communists within the barbed wire enclosures, hospital records show.

Guards suppressing three riots in this UN POW camp killed 97.

Lt. Col. S. M. Gelenger, Flint, Mich., head of the hospital, said bodies of prisoners slain within the compounds often are not recovered for days.

Hospital records give many instances of brutality by the POWs. One prisoner found dead had been buried alive.

Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner said the POWs could have captured the island about two weeks ago had they wanted to. They still are forging weapons but the time has passed when the Reds could gain control outside their compounds, he said.

Action on Removal Of Alleys Delayed WeekbyBrunswick

Plan to Keep Ruzzo's Running Unknown Until Return of Kaufman

The Brunswick-Balke-Collendar Co., entitled to remove equipment from the Ruzzo Bowlatorium after midnight today, will delay action for another week, Attorney Arthur B. Ewig, of Cashin & Ewig, local counsel for the equipment company said this afternoon.

Plans were reported in progress, meanwhile, to keep the alleys intact, but those interested are awaiting the return of Attorney Georg Kaufman from his vacation on May 29.

Consents to Wait

The bowling equipment company annouced last week that its tentative plans called for removal of the equipment within a few days after May 27, but Ewig said he had been informed that the company has consented to wait for another week.

It is expected that the group interested in keeping the alleys operating will meet soon after the return of Attorney Kaufman, probably next Monday, to discuss whatever plan can be worked out to keep the alleys operating.

Peace Move Ceremony Seen by 500

48 Million Germans Given Equality in West Combine Today by Contract

Approval Needed

Moscow Charges That Act Sews Seed for World War 3

Bonn, Germany, May 26 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France today signed a peace contract with Western Germany and then welcomed their former enemy as a "new partner in the fight for peace and freedom."

Approximately 500 persons crowded in Bundesrataal—Chamber of the upper house of the German Parliament—to watch the 40-minute ceremony that marked a dramatic milestone in the unceasing struggle between the western powers and the Soviet Union over Germany.

There was little jubilation in Western Germany, where all the nine states of the Western Federal Republic turned down a government request to close the schools and make the day a holiday.

Seated in red leather chairs at a grey, velvet draped table were British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. They put their signatures 20 times to the documents in the peace contract, aimed at bringing 48 million Germans west of the Iron Curtain into western community of nations on a basis of equality.

Approval Needed

But the ministers were careful to stress that the documents need final approval of their parliaments before the contract can be more than a scrap of paper. A companion act—the European army treaty to be signed in Paris tomorrow—needs similar ratification. This would bring 400,000 Germans into a million-man, six-nation army.

The shadow of a scowling Soviet Union and the realization that their homeland remains divided gave Germans little to cheer about. There were predictions in the West German press that the contract might be rejected by the French and the West German Parliament, where Socialist opposition to signing has been most bitter.

Russia Displeased

After the ceremony the four ministers met with newspapermen and declared both the peace

Stores Planning Summer Specials

Many of Kingston's retail stores are preparing special promotions this week Thursday and Saturday with emphasis on the summer vacation season which traditionally opens on Memorial Day.

Members of the Kingston Merchants Association (Uptown Branch) voted at their last meeting to remain open until 9 p. m. Thursday for the convenience of customers wishing to get their shopping done before the long holiday week-end.

The stores will be closed on Friday, Memorial Day. They will be open until 5 p. m. on Saturday.

Similar hours have also been voted for Independence Day week: Open until 9 on Thursday, July 3, closed all day Friday, July 4, and open until 5 on Saturday, July 5.

The fact that the two holidays come on Friday—the usual "shopping night" in Kingston—caused the change in hours. For many residents, the merchants point out, a Friday holiday means a long week-end holiday with the necessity of shopping early. Decision to keep stores open until 9 p. m. on the days preceding the holidays will give residents the opporunity to complete their shopping before the week-end begins.

At the same time, merchants discussing the proposition decided upon special sales promotions to attract shoppers on Thursday night, when the stores would normally be closed, and on Saturday, which falls between the holiday and Sunday.

The Saturday hours are expected by the merchants to be of value in attracting visitors who are spending the week-end in the area.

Local W-U Workers Return To Jobs After Long Strike

Chambers Brothers Quit Car Business

Retire After 40 Years in Agency Uptown at Stuyvesant Motors

Adelbert H. Chambers and Leon E. Chambers, operators of the Stuyvesant Motors, local Cadillac and Oldsmobile agency, are retiring after more than 40 years in the automobile and garage business at 250 Clinton avenue.

Announcement of the change in the business was made to employes on Friday when the employes, some of whom have been with the company for over 30 years, were told that the retirement of the Chambers brothers would not affect their employment but that the oragnization would be retained intact by the new proprietors.

Agency to Continue

Leon E. Chambers on Saturday indicated that the garage would be continued by the new Cadillac and Oldsmobile agency. The successor to the two agencies will be named later by General Motors.

Pioneers in the automobile business in Kingston, the Chambers brothers are well known in the automotive world. Adelbert H. Chambers, for years a breeder of fine cattle at his Maple Lane Farms, will devote his entire time to that business. Leon E. Chambers, who resides at Marbletown, has no immediate plans for the future. Both will continue with the business until a successor to the agencies has been named and leasing of the premises has been negotiated.

53 More Casualties

Washington, May 26 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 53 more battle casualties in Korea. A new list (No. 572) reported eight killed, 41 wounded, two missing and two injured.

Office Here Shut Since April 3; Company Will File for Hike in Rates

The Kingston office of the Western Union, along with all other offices of the company, opened for business today after being closed since April 3, when employes went on strike. All telegraph services have been restored. The local office will be open from 7:30 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Settlement of the differences were voted by the union membership, contingent on the company securing an increase in rates which will take care of benefits which have been conceded the employe. The company has agreed to file for rate increases within 10 days.

Under the agreement which was approved by a 8 to 5 vote, employes of the company prior to 1941 will receive six days pay for a five day week and employes who joined the company after 1941 will receive a 10 cent per hour increase. By the agreement, which is approved contingent upon the government granting an increase in rates to the company, the employes agree not to go on strike prior to October 1 should the government fail to grant the company's request for a rate increase.

Stopped by Helicopter

With British Commonwealth Division, Korea, May 26 (AP)—A soldier of the British Commonwealth Division found it pays to look in all directions—including up—before speeding in the division zone. The soldier was bustling along the road in a jeep at considerably faster than the posted speed limit when a helicopter descended and the occupant waved him to a halt. Out stepped the First Corps commander, Lt. Gen. John W. (Iron Mike) O'Daniel. He took the soldier's name and wrote out a speeding ticket on a blank sheet of paper while standing beneath the whirling blades of the 'copter.

June 5th Events Will Mark 300th Birthday of Kingston

If Kingston citizens are surprised in the act of humming "Happy Birthday" quite consistently all day on Thursday, June 5, it will probably result from the fact that a series of events on that day are designed to let citizens and guests know that the city was founded 300 years ago on a June 5th.

At 3:30 p. m. on the anniversary date at Academy Green Henry W. Stock, president of the Dutch Settlers' Society of Albany, will make a short address on the subject of Dutch contributions to the early life of the city. Mrs. Edward B. Cook of Rochester, N. Y., state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will then lay a wreath at the base of the statues on the Green, with appropriate remarks on the patriotic contributions of the early settlers.

A re-enactment of the signing of the original deed to land on which Kingston now stands will follow, with local citizens appropriately costumed portraying Thomas Chambers, Peter Stuyvesant and the Indian grantors. Following this short pageant, the actual deed itself, 300 years old, will be presented to the city for exhibition in the Senate House Museum.

The big day will wind up with the testimonial dinner to Kingston's veterans of all wars, as symbolized by General Robert W. Hasbrouck, outstanding army commander of World War II who is a native son. The dinner at the George Washington School has to be limited to 350 because of space restrictions and almost that number of tickets have been reserved.

Annual Services Are Held For Vets Who Died at Sea

The annual memorial service honoring veterans of all wars who lost their lives at sea was held Sunday afternoon under the Kingston-Rhinecliff Ferry shed.

Despite the inclement weather, many patriotic citizens and organizations participated in the exercises.

Addresses were given by Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, representing the city; the Rev. Ivan F. Gossoo, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church and Howard C. St. John, local attorney.

Alderman-at-Large Kelly spoke of the work carried on by the different veteran organizations and the need of more patriotic endeavor in these days when "our nation is in peril."

Speaking on the theme, A Dream, the Rev. Mr. Gossoo said America was discovered because of a dream and because of this dream the nation was founded. He explained that the Constitution and Bill of Rights were products of the dream that we could always be a peaceful and God-fearing nation.

Duty Is Stressed

St. John addressed the assemblage on "our patriotic duty as citizens of a free country who are not hampered by restrictions of speech and worship and that we can always control governmental overbearing by taking an active interest in our own affairs."

A recitation, the Boatman, and a solo, God Be With You Til We Meet Again, were given by Miss Carol Beesmer. Flowers were then strewn upon the waters of the Rondout creek commemorating the memory of those veterans whose lives were lost in the defense of their country while serving at sea.

Stores Planning Summer Specials

Many of Kingston's retail stores are preparing special promotions this week Thursday and Saturday with emphasis on the summer vacation season which traditionally opens on Memorial Day.

Members of the Kingston Merchants Association (Uptown Branch) voted at their last meeting to remain open until 9 p. m. Thursday for the convenience of customers wishing to get their shopping done before the long holiday week-end.

The stores will be closed on Friday, Memorial Day. They will be open until 5 p. m. on Saturday.

Similar hours have also been voted for Independence Day week: Open until 9 on Thursday, July 3, closed all day Friday, July 4, and open until 5 on Saturday, July 5.

The fact that the two holidays come on Friday—the usual "shopping night" in Kingston—caused the change in hours. For many residents, the merchants point out, a Friday holiday means a long week-end holiday with the necessity of shopping early. Decision to keep stores open until 9 p. m. on the days preceding the holidays will give residents the opporunity to complete their shopping before the week-end begins.

At the same time, merchants discussing the proposition decided upon special sales promotions to attract shoppers on Thursday night, when the stores would normally be closed, and on Saturday, which falls between the holiday and Sunday.

The Saturday hours are expected by the merchants to be of value in attracting visitors who are spending the week-end in the area.

ChambersBrothers Quit Car Business

Retire After 40 Years in Agency Uptown at Stuyvesant Motors

Adelbert H. Chambers and Leon E. Chambers, operators of the Stuyvesant Motors, local Cadillac and Oldsmobile agency, are retiring after more than 40 years in the automobile and garage business at 250 Clinton avenue.

Announcement of the change in the business was made to employes on Friday when the employes, some of whom have been with the company for over 30 years, were told that the retirement of the Chambers brothers would not affect their employment but that the oragnization would be retained intact by the new proprietors.

Agency to Continue

Leon E. Chambers on Saturday indicated that the garage would be continued by the new Cadillac and Oldsmobile agency. The successor to the two agencies will be named later by General Motors.

Pioneers in the automobile business in Kingston, the Chambers brothers are well known in the automotive world. Adelbert H. Chambers, for years a breeder of fine cattle at his Maple Lane Farms, will devote his entire time to that business. Leon E. Chambers, who resides at Marbletown, has no immediate plans for the future. Both will continue with the business until a successor to the agencies has been named and leasing of the premises has been negotiated.

53 More Casualties

Washington, May 26 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 53 more battle casualties in Korea. A new list (No. 572) reported eight killed, 41 wounded, two missing and two injured.

Office Here Shut Since April 3; Company Will File for Hike in Rates

The Kingston office of the Western Union, along with all other offices of the company, opened for business today after being closed since April 3, when employes went on strike. All telegraph services have been restored. The local office will be open from 7:30 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Settlement of the differences were voted by the union membership, contingent on the company securing an increase in rates which will take care of benefits which have been conceded the employe. The company has agreed to file for rate increases within 10 days.

Under the agreement which was approved by a 8 to 5 vote, employes of the company prior to 1941 will receive six days pay for a five day week and employes who joined the company after 1941 will receive a 10 cent per hour increase. By the agreement, which is approved contingent upon the government granting an increase in rates to the company, the employes agree not to go on strike prior to October 1 should the government fail to grant the company's request for a rate increase.

Stopped by Helicopter

With British Commonwealth Division, Korea, May 26 (AP)—A soldier of the British Commonwealth Division found it pays to look in all directions—including up—before speeding in the division zone. The soldier was bustling along the road in a jeep at considerably faster than the posted speed limit when a helicopter descended and the occupant waved him to a halt. Out stepped the First Corps commander, Lt. Gen. John W. (Iron Mike) O'Daniel. He took the soldier's name and wrote out a speeding ticket on a blank sheet of paper while standing beneath the whirling blades of the 'copter.

June 5th Events Will Mark 300th Birthday of Kingston

If Kingston citizens are surprised in the act of humming "Happy Birthday" quite consistently all day on Thursday, June 5, it will probably result from the fact that a series of events on that day are designed to let citizens and guests know that the city was founded 300 years ago on a June 5th.

At 3:30 p. m. on the anniversary date at Academy Green Henry W. Stock, president of the Dutch Settlers' Society of Albany, will make a short address on the subject of Dutch contributions to the early life of the city. Mrs. Edward B. Cook of Rochester, N. Y., state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will then lay a wreath at the base of the statues on the Green, with appropriate remarks on the patriotic contributions of the early settlers.

A re-enactment of the signing of the original deed to land on which Kingston now stands will follow, with local citizens appropriately costumed portraying Thomas Chambers, Peter Stuyvesant and the Indian grantors. Following this short pageant, the actual deed itself, 300 years old, will be presented to the city for exhibition in the Senate House Museum.

The big day will wind up with the testimonial dinner to Kingston's veterans of all wars, as symbolized by General Robert W. Hasbrouck, outstanding army commander of World War II who is a native son. The dinner at the George Washington School has to be limited to 350 because of space restrictions and almost that number of tickets have been reserved.

Annual Services Are Held For Vets Who Died at Sea

The annual memorial service honoring veterans of all wars who lost their lives at sea was held Sunday afternoon under the Kingston-Rhinecliff Ferry shed.

Despite the inclement weather, many patriotic citizens and organizations participated in the exercises.

Addresses were given by Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, representing the city; the Rev. Ivan F. Gossoo, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church and Howard C. St. John, local attorney.

Alderman-at-Large Kelly spoke of the work carried on by the different veteran organizations and the need of more patriotic endeavor in these days when "our nation is in peril."

Speaking on the theme, A Dream, the Rev. Mr. Gossoo said America was discovered because of a dream and because of this dream the nation was founded. He explained that the Constitution and Bill of Rights were products of the dream that we could always be a peaceful and God-fearing nation.

Duty Is Stressed

St. John addressed the assemblage on "our patriotic duty as citizens of a free country who are not hampered by restrictions of speech and worship and that we can always control governmental overbearing by taking an active interest in our own affairs."

A recitation, the Boatman, and a solo, God Be With You Til We Meet Again, were given by Miss Carol Beesmer. Flowers were then strewn upon the waters of the Rondout creek commemorating the memory of those veterans whose lives were lost in the defense of their country while serving at sea.

Upper Hudson CIO Approves Draft Of Constitution

The Upper Hudson Area Industrial Union Council, CIO an affiliate of the New York State CIO Council, approved its constitution at a meeting in Stottville Saturday and set Monday, June 16, as the date for permanent election of officers.

The Council embraces CIO organizations in Columbia, Greene, Dutchess and Ulster counties. Mable Fisher, business agent of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of Kingston, is the publicity chairman for the group which includes several local CIO unions.

Harold J. Garno, secretary-treaurer and legislative representative of the state CIO council, addressed a group of 35 CIO area union representatives on various labor bills of state and national significance.

Garno made a strong plea for united CIO action against the bill known as H.R. 7647 which, he warned, in the name of protecting the national defense, would shackle unions with a permanent injunction during periods of national emergency. He urged the union leaders to bombard their congressional representatives with protests against what he termed "the vilest piece of legislation ever foisted upon organized labor."

Terming it a strike-breaking union-busting, negotiation-wrecking bill," Garmo said the Attorney General would be required to obtain an injunction, at request of either Congress or the president, against any threatened strike in an essential defense industry. There is no time limit to this injunction.

According to reports today, the evangelistic series may be held at a larger auditorium in the near future. Present plans are underway for such a building.

Carburetor Too Rich Makes Motorist Too Poor

Car owners who are wasting money and not getting proper gas mileage due to over-rich mixtures will be pleased to learn of a Wisconsin inventor who has developed a very clever unit that helps save gasoline by "Vacumating." It is automatic and operates on the supercharge principle. Easily installed in a few minutes. Fits all cars, trucks and tractors. The manufacturers, the Vacumatic Carburetor Co., 7617-700 W. State St., Wauwatosa, Wis., are offering a Vacu-matic to anyone who will install it on his car and help introduce it to others. They will gladly send full free particulars if you write them or send your name and address on a post card today.

Car Wrecked Near Woodstock

At 11:45 o'clock Saturday night a 1948 Pontiac sedan owned by Alfred R. Diaz of Jersey City, N. J., was involved in an accident on Route 375 on the curve just east of the White Horse Inn. The car left the road and struck a fence and culvert and overturned. It was badly wrecked. When investigation was made of the accident by Corporal Ray Dunn, no one was found at the scene and no one was reported to have been treated in Woodstock by a physician although there were blood spots on the wrecked car indicating some one had been injured. At 4:30 a. m. Sunday morning Mr. Diaz reported to the state police at Kingston that his car had been stolen from the Sea Horse in Woodstock. An investigation is still under way today to ascertain who was in the car at the time of the accident.

Saying that this took care of 11 of the 12 original patentees, LeFevre pointed out that the 12th patentee was Hugo Freer. "Since he was the last of the patentees to arrive in Kingston and was not mentioned previous to the purchase of the New Paltz patent from the Indians, the board felt that his name could be used when naming a later section to the dormitory. Governor Dewey and my political friends in the New York Legislature, please remember 'to be constructed later.' "

Le Fevre pointed out that there was another name "which was very prominent in the early history of New Paltz, and still is, the name of Elting. For some reason the original Mr. Elting was not a patentee, but to really make this dormitory symmetrically and historically correct, there should be another unit added later to take the name of Elting. As a matter of fact, these two additional units to this building already appear on the model of the campus which is on display. This model also includes a new gymnasium, a new classroom building and an athletic field with stands. While we are looking for these new buildings, we are also very appreciative, Governor Dewey, for your approval of the appropriation for the new library and we are most happy that you are here to break the ground for this new building today."

Thanks Dewey Leadership

William Samuel Carlson, president of the State University of New York, acknowledged the inspiration and leadership of Governor Dewey and his administration in making possible the origin of the State University of New York and "its continued growth and outlook. . .

"It will always be our goal not merely to be tolerated — but rather to warrant the approbation and support of virtually all the millions of New Yorkers. We require the support of those who believe that higher education has much to offer the world and the individual today and that within the walls of institutions such as the State University of New York the great bulk of our young people can obtain the equality of opportunity promised them.

"It is our hope that the State University of New York will assume and maintain its rightful place in the forefront of those who dedicate themselves to routing the Old World conception of 'education for the few'. Our great State Universities have changed that, so that now they educate a large portion of our young people who reach college. And while educating ever greater numbers of young people, the State Universities have thrived, too, as former President Seymour of Yale put it, by reason of their sense of responsibility for the welfare of the community."

Fox Stayed Quiet Ted Did Leaping

Any kind of a fox is apt to stir interest in the average sportsman, but to a group of bowlers, a local taxi driver and Charles H. "Ted" Fitzgerald, city hall janitor, there's a sequence of interest, it seems.

Henry Dumont, taxi operator of 111 Green street, found a red fox (stuffed and mounted) in his cab after several bowlers got out of the vehicle early Sunday, and he brought it to police headquarters to be claimed by its owner (if any).

Nobody was immediately interested in this stuffed specimen which has its mouth open and looks a bit like its ready to leap somewhere in the direction of an observer.

And leap is just about what Ted Fitzgerald thought it was going to do when at the start of his regular working routine this Monday morning, he entered the dark room where it was stored, switched on the light . . . and brother let's ask Ted who did the leaping.

Blames Radicals

Boise, Idaho, May 26 (AP)—It was quiet today at the Idaho state penitentiary, scene of a four-hour riot Saturday. Warden L. E. Clapp and other officials surveyed the estimated $15,000 damage caused by 300 convicts who barricated themselves in the recreation hall and adjoining license plate factory. They were routed out with tear gas. Clapp put 11 ringleaders in solitary confinement and kept most of the other rioters in their cells. Some were released to start cleaning up the rubble. The warden blamed the trouble on a group of "radicals" who, he said, were trying to take over the prisoner grievance committee's functions. The riot developed when guards locked up four of the ringleaders.

No Cause Verdict

A verdict of no cause for action was returned in the negligence action brought by Joseph Santiago and his wife of Shandaken against Charles Bednar and another, tried last week in Supreme Court. The action involved damages and injuries to Mrs. Santiago which were sustained when a gas stove exploded. They had claimed improper installation. Abraham Streifer appeared for plaintiffs and Cashin & Ewig for defendants.

Parking Goes Up

Albany, N. Y., May 26 (AP)—The automobile parking fee in 78 New York state parks was increased from 25 to 35 cents over the weekend. At Jones Beach, on Long Island's south shore, the charge was jumped from 50 to 60 cents. The State Park Commission said the boost was due to increased operating costs.

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Mr. Gossoo and at the close a firing squad from Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, fired three volleys over the creek waters.

Members of the firing squad were Commandant Edward Esposito, Charles C. Awkerman, Harold Macholdt, John R. Mayone and G. Albert Nussbaum. Taps were blown by Daniel Schrader of Port Ewen Drum Corps in final tribute to the heroes of all wars.

During the exercises the colors of Auxiliary, 53, Tappan Camp, and colors of Joyce-Schirick Post, 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, were displayed.

YMCA Day Camp To Open June 23

The YMCA Pine Knoll Day Camp at DeWitt Lake will open Monday, June 23, for its 10th consecutive season, it was announced today by Lou Schafer, camp director.

Schafer, who is director of physical education at the YMCA, said that registrations were being received daily and that he expected the same heavy attendance that the camp has had for the past three or four seasons. The camp for boys and girls between the ages of five and 14, will be divided into junior and senior groups, Schafer pointed out, in order that children may be placed with their own age groups.

Many of the camp's junior and senior leaders are now enrolled in Schafer's life saving and water safety program at the YMCA pool. He said that three special classes will be conducted in order to acquaint the camp leaders with the skills required to pass the national YMCA swimming tests. Once these, 51 skills and stunts are mastered, Schafer said, the leaders will be prepared to begin their junior life saving work with a better knowledge of swimming than ever offered in this area before.

Schafer is making daily trips to DeWitt Lake getting Pine Knoll in first class shape for the season. Paul Donohue, the camp's first assistant, will return from Springfield College early in June to assist Schafer in setting up the camp playground.

Parents of children desiring YMCA Day Camp information may call the YMCA, telephone 1100.

No injuries were reported and no arrests were made.

Dewey Stresses He's No Candidate

New York, May 26 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said again yesterday he would not be a candidate for president, even if the Republican Convention became deadlocked.

"That one's really settled," Dewey said in a televised interview from his Pawling, N. Y., farm. He appeared on the CBS "See It Now" program, on a microwave relay to New York.

Dewey, a backer of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination, was asked how he felt about having a general in the White House.

The Governor replied that "wars are waged by strong countries against weak ones" and that a general as president would keep this nation from getting "sloppy and weak."

"We've had 11 generals as president," Dewey added. "And we've never had a war while a general was in the White House."

At Church Congress

Barcelona, Spain, May 26 (AP)—Hundreds of Catholic prelates and half a million pilgrims from almost every country on earth crowded this city for the opening tomorrow of the first World Eucharistic Congress in 14 years. When the last such Congress was held in Budapest in 1938, an uneasy world, then as now, was trying to avoid a war. The central theme of the prayers for this congress is peace—peace of man with himself; peace in his home and the factory; peace among nations, and peace in the church of Christ. Every non-Communist country in the world is represented among the host of Pilgrims in this second city of Spain. The countries dominated by Soviet communism are represented only by their exiles.

Large coal resources are found in 28 of the United States.

Ives Speaks Out

Averill Park, N. Y., May 26 (AP) —Sen. Irving M. Ives, a backer of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination, declared "the Republican party must present to the American people a candidate behind whom the entire nation can unite." The Norwich legislator told the 20th annual convention of New York Young Republican Clubs Saturday night that the voters "do not desire a Mr. Republican or a Mr. Democrat" in the White House. In his speech calling on the GOP to be "militantly united" in this fall's campaign, Ives did not refer to Eisenhower or Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio by name. But he is known to be a supporter of the general and delegates pointed out that Taft is known popularly as "Mr. Republican."

When the last such Congress was held in Budapest in 1938, an uneasy world, then as now, was trying to avoid a war. The central theme of the prayers for this congress is peace—peace of man with himself; peace in his home and the factory; peace among nations, and peace in the church of Christ. Every non-Communist country in the world is represented among the host of Pilgrims in this second city of Spain. The countries dominated by Soviet communism are represented only by their exiles.

Ives Speaks Out

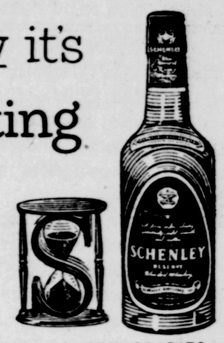

Averill Park, N. Y., May 26 (AP) —Sen. Irving M. Ives, a backer of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination, declared "the Republican party must present to the American people a candidate behind whom the entire nation can unite." The Norwich legislator told the 20th annual convention of New York Young Republican Clubs Saturday night that the voters "do not desire a Mr. Republican or a Mr. Democrat" in the White House. In his speech calling on the GOP to be "militantly united" in this fall's campaign, Ives did not refer to Eisenhower or Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio by name. But he is known to be a supporter of the general and delegates pointed out that Taft is known popularly as "Mr. Republican."

BRITAIN AND RED CHINA

Officially the British government still recognizes Red China. But a truer index of British-Chinese relations is the action of Britain's business interests in abandoning their huge investments in Communist-held mainland areas.

By this move British corporations are tossing to the winds a sum variously estimated at from $850,000,000 to $1,400,000,000, which is represented by factories, docks, warehouses, shipyards, hotels and other establishments.

They are giving up because under Mao Tse Tung's Red regime they have been hounded by fines, special taxes, and the necessity of paying full wages to their Chinese employes even though their business has been at a virtual standstill for long months.

Whereas these firms once used 10,000 Britishers, the total is down to 120, and these now wish to get out. In short, British business managers merely wish to recognize a fact. Their business has been substantially killed and they have been subjected to intolerable burdens and interference. There is no sane reason to hang on.

To a proud trading nation, a country fabled for its overseas enterprise, decisions of this kind are extremely hard. Already Britain's trading empire has shrunk almost beyond the worst imaginings of a decade ago. Now it is formally accepting another shrinking of its effective economic orbit.

Since the Reds' harassment of British business in China has been deliberate, it must naturally be concluded this is the result Mao seeks. He is getting rid of British trade influence in his territory.

We shall see hereafter what advantage this brings to the Chinese. On the basis of performance to date, we may be forgiven for doubting the gains. To put Britain's sizable enterprises into Red Chinese hands will be pretty much like turning over the management of General Motor's central office to the overnight clean-up squad.

It is a curious paradox that despite these uncomfortable realities British policy still calls for recognition of Mao.

Theoretically there may be sound international law in support of accepting a regime which has full control of the area it rules. But in practice British recognition has been a fiasco. The British diplomatic representative at Peking has been steadily snubbed since his arrival more than two years ago.

Obviously the policy has no advantage and has degenerated into an empty formula. Winston Churchill's government might be moved to cancel it out were it not for Labor Party and other opposition. The opponents seem to argue that any gesture of conciliation toward China is a hopeful thing, even if it produces nothing.

Perhaps it can be said most accurately that Britain recognizes China but China does not recognize the British. How long this one-sided display of international good intentions can sensibly continue is hard to guess. But the precipitate withdrawal of British business is the tip-off on the way things really are.

AID WITH HOMEWORK

A youngster confronted with a difficult problem in homework is likely to turn to Dad, poor soul, for an answer. Dad may not be quite certain how he managed to pass eighth grade arithmetic himself, but faced with a question of mathematics he must bear up cheerfully, look wise and do the best he can.

In Los Angeles recently, however, a young school girl decided to take her problem in plane geometry to the best possible person. She mailed a letter to Albert Einstein, and asked his help. By return mail the great mathematician sent the answer and a hand drawn diagram to illustrate it.

Some fathers might be offended if their daughters were to turn to Professor Einstein for help instead of to him. Not us, however. We would be grateful for any help the genius would care to give us with the youngsters' homework. We could even be reasonably sure that it would be right.

'These Days'

THE BRITISH LEAVE CHINA

During China's past century of civil war and tribulation, it has been British policy to bend to local conditions rather than to insist upon general principles. In pursuit of this policy they promoted their trade.

This goes back a distance in the history of China. For instance during the Taiping Rebellion (1848-1865), it was British policy to support the Manchu dynasty against the rebels, but Shanghai, Hongkong and Nanking did business with the Taipings in spite of their pecularities. During Sun Yat-sen's first successful revolution (1911), the same program was followed, a thriving business being done with the revolutionary forces, who were almost immediately recognized upon their victory. Similarly, when Chiang Kai-shek established his government in Nanking in 1927, the British vied with the Americans as to who would be the first to recognize Chiang.

Even when local governments came into power during the period of the Tuchuns (1916-1927), although these warlords could not be recognized, close relations were established by all countries with them and the British were particularly adept in their handling of some of them. For instance, Chang Tso-lin was for many years the master of Manchuria, ignoring the authority of the recognized national government. All foreign powers paid court to him.

Thus, when the Communists conquered China in 1949, the British position simplified itself to the fact that the area was held by the blighters and they might just as well get on with business. They swiftly recognized Mao-Tze-tung's government to the disadvantage of the United States. Hongkong in 1950 and 1951 did such a thriving business as it had never known before and for a time it was British policy to describe Mao as an Oriental Tito.

But toward the end of 1951, the business tapered off, principally because the United States could not understand how the British could sell materials useful in war which the Chinese Communists were using not only to kill Americans but some British.

Besides, the Chinese Communists were treating the British badly. It was a queer situation: while Downing Street rushed to recognize Mao Tze-tung, he never recognized the British. He permitted trade with them through Hongkong and Shanghai, but he would not write a treaty or even negotiate one.

The tribulations of the British merchant can only be understood by one who had lived among them in the days of their greatness. The British firms were the principal centers of trade in each city. The lions of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, one smiling, one frowning, were marks of wealth and power. Each Taipan lived in a great house in which he entertained like a king. His Chinese comprador was likely to be among the richest of Chinese. The British clubs determined the social life of the city.

And I must say that, man for man, the type of Britisher who came to China to trade or to serve as a government official was generally superior in quality and training to most other Europeans. If he was not loved, he was respected and, in a measure, feared.

The greatest of all trading firms was Jardine, Matheson, which also engaged in industry, shipping and insurance. Next stood Butterfield and Swire, the British-American Tobacco Company and the Asiatic Petroleum Company. But there were hundreds of other firms and banks and exchange brokers and lawyers, each contributing his share to the commerce of the country. The British were ubiquitous in every treaty port (areas set aside by treaty for foreigners), and they set the pace.

The Communists treated these men as though they were the scum of the earth. For instance, John Keswick, the head of Jardine's, in Shanghai, whom I have known since the day he arrived in China, was held a hostage in house arrest. Others were made prisoners. No one was permitted to leave the country until a man in the firm of equal rank replaced him. The details of abuse are hardly imaginable.

And so the British have given up and are pulling out, losing perhaps $2,000,000,000 of physical investments. They have been trading with China since the beginning of the 19th century and I am sure that when the balance sheet is written, it was China that made the greater gain.

Perhaps the British have at last learned that it is impossible to do business wth a Communist country.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

PATIENTS WITH NORMAL HEARTS

A physician confided to a friend that he has a habit of taking his pulse at frequent intervals. His daughter, observing this, remarked, "So you're a cardiac neurotic." She meant that he imagined that he had some heart disturbance, as a matter of fact, he was interested in his heart rate only and how it fluctuated from slow to rapid during the time he was counting the heart rate.

This physician also tells of a relative telephoning him to get the name of a good heart specialist. He suggested one, and a few days later the heart specialist called him and indignantly asked why he had sent the patient for a heart examination when her heart was normal. The specialist told him he had no right to refer a case to him unless he had examined the patient's heart himself.

That many patients are referred to heart specialists with a diagnosis of "something wrong" with their heart when the heart is normal is reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Drs. Leonard J. Goldwater, Lewis H. Bronstein and Beatrice Kresky, New York. The title of their article is "Study of One Hundred and Seventy-Five Cardiacs Without Heart Disease."

"Patients referred to the Work Classification Unit are examined in accordance with standards developed by the New York Heart Association, consisting of a complete cardiological (heart) study based on accepted criteria (information regarding the heart.) All questionable cases are examined by two or more heart specialists. All persons seen at the unit were referred because of employment difficulties attributed to heart disease," the doctors report.

Of the 631 who were adequately studied, 175 (about 28 per cent) were found to have no heart disease at all.

What happens to a patient who has been told that there is something wrong with his heart, or if he thinks he has something wrong with his heart despite his physician's assurance that there is nothing wrong with his heart?

In this series of cases, a great percentage began to live the life of an invalid physically, remaining in bed a great part of the time. Even when on their feet, they avoided all forms of work, even light work. Advice given and followed included no lifting, a sit-down job only, no staid climbing, change occupation, no exercise.

Many of these non-cardiac patients, young men who hight have been gainfully employed, were advised to restrict or cut down on their activities.

The lesson for patients is that, if advised by a general practitioner that they have heart disease and to "take it easy," they ask their physician to refer them to a heart specialist or heart clinic. They have or have not heart disease, and should know the truth.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The pact for a European Army which the foreign ministers initial today is not a lengthy document. It is quite short. But behind its written pages are thousands of unwritten chapters recording the hopes of the future, the history of the past, and the hurdles in the path of peace.

Historically, today marks the climax of 300 years of warfare, back and forth across the Rhine, back and forth between the French and German armies, back and forth—until the wheat fields and the forests were tangled with barbed wire and drenched with blood.

So this pact, putting the armies of two bitter enemies—France and Germany—under one flag and in one uniform, could be the most significant milestone for peace the world has ever seen. To those whose sons have gone forth to war year after year, to those who are so weary of war they are suspicious even of us, it could be the millenium.

But because it does carry the hopes of millions, and because the goals of the Kremlin do not flourish in the soil of peace, the European Army Pact faces terrific hurdles. Moscow is determined that this pact never shall go into full force. So the signing today will mark the beginning of the greatest war of nerves since V-E Day.

Jeers for Ridgway

Even before the ceremony today, Moscow has been martialing its forces to scare western Europe out of this momentous agreement. Here are the moves which will come to a climax in the immediate future:

General Matthew Ridgway's arrival will touch off a vociferous anti-American demonstration. He will be branded the butcher of Korea, held responsible for the highly exaggerated prisoner troubles in Korea, and accused as a user of germ warfare. Communist propaganda regarding germ warfare has been so successful that about half the people of Europe really believe it.

As a result, some of our best friends believe Ridgway's appointment to Paris was a mistake.

Soviet rearmament of East Germany is increasing. This is probably a psychological move made to worry the French and scare the West Germans away from the European Army pact.

Seize Berlin

There's been a heavy Russian build-up around Berlin. Simultaneously Communist civilians are reported planning to flock into West Berlin, stage riots, and give an excuse to Communist troops to enter the city. This time, it's reported, the Russians plan to seize both Berlin airports, thus making it impossible for us to repeat the airlift. In such event, Berlin would be starved out and have to capitulate. The alternative would be war.

European inflation is on the increase and is our second worst enemy. Some people claim it is even enemy No. 1. For, with prices high and wages low, inflation makes for communism. Communist parliament members in France and Italy are endeavoring to create as much economic instability as possible in order to increase inflation.

Inflation has brought substantial business to a standstill throughout western Europe, and this will be increased if there is any substantial cut in U. S. aid to Europe.

Ratification of the united army pact is uncertain, and will be made more so by the above events. This is Moscow's real goal—namely, to discourage, frighten, disillusion the peoples of France and Germany to such extent that their parliaments refuse to ratify the historic pact being initialed today.

Will History Repeat?

On the other hand, it remains a fact that a pact providing for a united European army, putting French and German troops under one uniform, is being initialed today. This could end 300 years of bloodshed. And this is more important than all the tricks Moscow is pulling out of the bag to block it.

Twenty-four years ago I was present in the Salon d'Horloge at the signing of the famed Kellogg-Briand pact. The August sun spread its slanting rays over the Seine, penetrated the deep-curtained windows of the Quai d'Orsay and danced among the great crystal candelabra of Louis XVI as Europe's statesmen scratched their names on the parchment outlawing war supposedly forever.

At that ceremony were such idealistic statesmen as Dr. Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, whose heart was broken by the Communists, Gustav Stresemann of Germany, who did his best to oppose Hitler, and Aristide Briand of France, who strove for better relations with Germany. They truly felt that war might be outlawed at that ceremony in the Salon D'Horloge in August, 1928.

But the background lurked forces of Fascism and Nationalism which gradually undercut that treaty and edged the world toward war.

Today the same forces, this time under the name of communism, are equally intent on wrecking the pact being signed. The question is, will they succeed? The answer, in reality, is up to us.

It is supposed to be axiomatic that history repeats. But nothing is really axiomatic. And if the more enlightened people of the world remember the mistakes of the past, history need not repeat.

France Feels Western World Permits Russia to Appear as Champion of Peace

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Paris, May 26 — Leaders of France have expressed to this correspondent in the last few days the opinion that Soviet Russia is being permitted to appear before the world as the champion of peace while the western allies pursue a negative and at times passive policy.

Basically, the French have the idea that, while conferences and talks with the Soviet may not produce results, it is important to keep an making gestures and peace moves so as to deprive the Communists in France and other countries of their principal stock in trade—the charge that the allies are preparing for offensive rather than defensive war.

This writer talked at length privately with President Vincent Auriol at the Elysse Palace. According to custom, he cannot be quoted, though he did laughingly authorize the statement that he was in good health. M. Auriol is a shrewd analyst of public opinion in France and is one of its elder statesmen. Although he doesn't have the executive powers which an American president possesses and the post has been regarded as merely a symbol of the unity of the government, it so happens that every week he does attend and preside over a meeting of the premier and the ministers of the cabinet. Thus he is in close touch with what is happening inside the government.

What impressed this writer after talking with the president, and later with other high officials, is the virtual unanimity which they exhibit about the main problems of France. These views may be summarized as follows:

1. France is not communistic, and the Communist influences are diminishing. Even the large Communist papers are losing circulation heavily. The causes of communistic strength at the polls are the result both of impoverishment of the country due to war and the artificial propagation of fear. France, having suffered heavily in two world wars, is easily aroused to more fear.

2. The average man's standard of living is still far too low, because wage increases have been offset by a rise in the cost of living. That is the area in which the Communist effort is constantly directed, playing upon discontent and privation.

3. Fear of war is being kept in the minds of the French people in various ways—mostly through the mischief produced by clever Moscow propaganda, which at the moment is exaggerating the dangers that can arise in rearming Germany. To offset this, French officials think that more conferences with the highest officials of Russia are necessary, even though they lead to deadlocks. The theory is that it must be demonstrated, more and more, how the Russians are blocking a settlement. To remain aloof and answer notes every now and then isn't considered sufficiently effective, even as counter-propaganda.

4. The French fear the Germans as much as they do the Russians. Many who have lived under German occupation keep saying Russian occupation couldn't be worse. It is to meet this uniformed view that domestic propaganda is needed, and, unless that propaganda is also backed up and dramatized by action in the international field, the fear complex can produce a sentiment here which can affect adversely efforts to unite the western countries either in a European defense army or in a United States of Europe. Both of these concepts for European unity have powerful support in the government, though the idea of the European defense army with German units in it is going to be hard to swallow, despite all the safeguards being promised.

5. There is genuine concern about American foreign policy and apprehension lest the elections in the United States this year produce a drastic change in direction and purpose. This leads some officials to suggest that maybe another effort should be made to convince Soviet Russia that the best way to handle the German problem is to neutralize Germany. Along with this would go a plan for an over-all policy declaration by the western powers which would set forth their aims and the conditions for a lasting peace with the Soviet Union. The chief feature of such a plan would be a joint western demand that Russia withdraw from the eastern provinces of Germany or work out a settlement with Germany on the disposition of those territories. The idea would be to call at the same time for the demilitarization of Germany, the withdrawal of all occupation troops from that country, and the placing of an international force, including Russian and American forces, to stand guard at both borders of Germany.

This latter plan is recommended by one of the highest French officials as one that should be put up to Russia, and, if it fails, it would then be obvious to everybody that there is no alternative but to make the calculated risk of rearming Germany as part of the western alliance.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I was touched almost to tears when President Truman told a group of visitors that he had the right and power to seize the American Press in conceivable circumstances and our newspapers were set to babbling about themselves as the voice of the people, the proposition set me to meditating and I suddenly had to admit to myself that the newspapers and magazines, the radio and television, are not the voice of the people at all but the voices of rather soulless corporations.

The so-called editors are employes, hired executives, many of whom got there because they were meek in the presence of the front office, and more valuable as desk men than as creative or productive editorial hands such as writers and reporters. The man who holds one of the most lucratice positions of this kind in American journalism never did cover a story, can't write a lick, has no imagination, lacks both courage and initiative and got his job by the favor of a capricious nut after he had outlived a succession of predecessors.

Most of our giants of journalism have been eccentrics. Mr. Bennett exiled himself to Europe after he had performed an act of misbehavior in a Victorian New York home. Mr. Pulitzer was described by one of his familiars as a man who would split a word to swear. I could give you an illustration which would not be at all rude by the ordinary standards of our day but we have adopted in out style-book a set of priggish inhibitions which forbid.

On the other hand, daily newspapers do not hesitate to present as legitimate Washington News incredible statements by rascals completely indifferent to truth. For home-grown, independent editorial opinion our press offers motivated, slanted party propaganda bought by the yard.

We also print ill-drawn monstrosities called comic strips in some of which vile pornography is flaunted under some imaginary artistic license and lurid horrors in which rats devour cadavers. And we wail about the shortage and cost of paper.

Mr. Hearst, the most lavish employer in journalism in his day, imported castles, stone by stone from Europe, one of which still rests in the crates in New York. He maintained at San Simeon a principality with a zoo of spotted, striped and humped ruminants and about 50 dachshunds. He raised editorial salaries abruptly when he went into Chicago and, like McGraw in baseball, lifted his subordinates from a rough and rowdy social status to such a dignity as the individual himself, could maintain. That is, he paid his people enough to be laundered and pressed if they would. Many would. He was a superb editorial writer with a knack of making people think his thoughts were original with them.

Northcliffe was crazy in his latter days and we may wonder how crazy he was how long before he died. He was bad for English journalism, though. Scripps was a tight-fisted booze-fighting tyrant with a fake reputation for generous humanity which wrung many a sour grimace from ink-stained wretches who nickeled along from pay-day to pay-day on his stingy pay. Roy Howard, who succeeded him, has obscured his virtues to some extent behind a hay-seed's passion for striped shirts and hats with funny feathers on them.

In today's journalism, few newspapers are identified with individual personalities and few still carry the name of any editor. They are not edited, but assembled.

The parties who enjoy the title of editor have gone Rotarian and hold grandiose professional galas in New York and Washington in the spring of the year at which the AP's revolving prelacy make orations to themselves in sombre tones which only emphasize the amoebic editorial character of the body of journalism in a fateful time. Lacking a mandate from the people, unknown in fact to all but a few of their own colleagues in this declining trade, these office executives of impersonal institutions pool their own

Officially the British government still recognizes Red China. But a truer index of British-Chinese relations is the action of Britain's business interests in abandoning their huge investments in Communist-held mainland areas.

By this move British corporations are tossing to the winds a sum variously estimated at from $850,000,000 to $1,400,000,000, which is represented by factories, docks, warehouses, shipyards, hotels and other establishments.

They are giving up because under Mao Tse Tung's Red regime they have been hounded by fines, special taxes, and the necessity of paying full wages to their Chinese employes even though their business has been at a virtual standstill for long months.

Whereas these firms once used 10,000 Britishers, the total is down to 120, and these now wish to get out. In short, British business managers merely wish to recognize a fact. Their business has been substantially killed and they have been subjected to intolerable burdens and interference. There is no sane reason to hang on.

To a proud trading nation, a country fabled for its overseas enterprise, decisions of this kind are extremely hard. Already Britain's trading empire has shrunk almost beyond the worst imaginings of a decade ago. Now it is formally accepting another shrinking of its effective economic orbit.

Since the Reds' harassment of British business in China has been deliberate, it must naturally be concluded this is the result Mao seeks. He is getting rid of British trade influence in his territory.

We shall see hereafter what advantage this brings to the Chinese. On the basis of performance to date, we may be forgiven for doubting the gains. To put Britain's sizable enterprises into Red Chinese hands will be pretty much like turning over the management of General Motor's central office to the overnight clean-up squad.

It is a curious paradox that despite these uncomfortable realities British policy still calls for recognition of Mao.

Theoretically there may be sound international law in support of accepting a regime which has full control of the area it rules. But in practice British recognition has been a fiasco. The British diplomatic representative at Peking has been steadily snubbed since his arrival more than two years ago.

Obviously the policy has no advantage and has degenerated into an empty formula. Winston Churchill's government might be moved to cancel it out were it not for Labor Party and other opposition. The opponents seem to argue that any gesture of conciliation toward China is a hopeful thing, even if it produces nothing.

Perhaps it can be said most accurately that Britain recognizes China but China does not recognize the British. How long this one-sided display of international good intentions can sensibly continue is hard to guess. But the precipitate withdrawal of British business is the tip-off on the way things really are.

AID WITH HOMEWORK

A youngster confronted with a difficult problem in homework is likely to turn to Dad, poor soul, for an answer. Dad may not be quite certain how he managed to pass eighth grade arithmetic himself, but faced with a question of mathematics he must bear up cheerfully, look wise and do the best he can.

In Los Angeles recently, however, a young school girl decided to take her problem in plane geometry to the best possible person. She mailed a letter to Albert Einstein, and asked his help. By return mail the great mathematician sent the answer and a hand drawn diagram to illustrate it.

Some fathers might be offended if their daughters were to turn to Professor Einstein for help instead of to him. Not us, however. We would be grateful for any help the genius would care to give us with the youngsters' homework. We could even be reasonably sure that it would be right.

THE BRITISH LEAVE CHINA

During China's past century of civil war and tribulation, it has been British policy to bend to local conditions rather than to insist upon general principles. In pursuit of this policy they promoted their trade.

This goes back a distance in the history of China. For instance during the Taiping Rebellion (1848-1865), it was British policy to support the Manchu dynasty against the rebels, but Shanghai, Hongkong and Nanking did business with the Taipings in spite of their pecularities. During Sun Yat-sen's first successful revolution (1911), the same program was followed, a thriving business being done with the revolutionary forces, who were almost immediately recognized upon their victory. Similarly, when Chiang Kai-shek established his government in Nanking in 1927, the British vied with the Americans as to who would be the first to recognize Chiang.

Even when local governments came into power during the period of the Tuchuns (1916-1927), although these warlords could not be recognized, close relations were established by all countries with them and the British were particularly adept in their handling of some of them. For instance, Chang Tso-lin was for many years the master of Manchuria, ignoring the authority of the recognized national government. All foreign powers paid court to him.

Thus, when the Communists conquered China in 1949, the British position simplified itself to the fact that the area was held by the blighters and they might just as well get on with business. They swiftly recognized Mao-Tze-tung's government to the disadvantage of the United States. Hongkong in 1950 and 1951 did such a thriving business as it had never known before and for a time it was British policy to describe Mao as an Oriental Tito.

But toward the end of 1951, the business tapered off, principally because the United States could not understand how the British could sell materials useful in war which the Chinese Communists were using not only to kill Americans but some British.

Besides, the Chinese Communists were treating the British badly. It was a queer situation: while Downing Street rushed to recognize Mao Tze-tung, he never recognized the British. He permitted trade with them through Hongkong and Shanghai, but he would not write a treaty or even negotiate one.

The tribulations of the British merchant can only be understood by one who had lived among them in the days of their greatness. The British firms were the principal centers of trade in each city. The lions of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, one smiling, one frowning, were marks of wealth and power. Each Taipan lived in a great house in which he entertained like a king. His Chinese comprador was likely to be among the richest of Chinese. The British clubs determined the social life of the city.

And I must say that, man for man, the type of Britisher who came to China to trade or to serve as a government official was generally superior in quality and training to most other Europeans. If he was not loved, he was respected and, in a measure, feared.

The greatest of all trading firms was Jardine, Matheson, which also engaged in industry, shipping and insurance. Next stood Butterfield and Swire, the British-American Tobacco Company and the Asiatic Petroleum Company. But there were hundreds of other firms and banks and exchange brokers and lawyers, each contributing his share to the commerce of the country. The British were ubiquitous in every treaty port (areas set aside by treaty for foreigners), and they set the pace.

The Communists treated these men as though they were the scum of the earth. For instance, John Keswick, the head of Jardine's, in Shanghai, whom I have known since the day he arrived in China, was held a hostage in house arrest. Others were made prisoners. No one was permitted to leave the country until a man in the firm of equal rank replaced him. The details of abuse are hardly imaginable.

And so the British have given up and are pulling out, losing perhaps $2,000,000,000 of physical investments. They have been trading with China since the beginning of the 19th century and I am sure that when the balance sheet is written, it was China that made the greater gain.

Perhaps the British have at last learned that it is impossible to do business wth a Communist country.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

PATIENTS WITH NORMAL HEARTS

A physician confided to a friend that he has a habit of taking his pulse at frequent intervals. His daughter, observing this, remarked, "So you're a cardiac neurotic." She meant that he imagined that he had some heart disturbance, as a matter of fact, he was interested in his heart rate only and how it fluctuated from slow to rapid during the time he was counting the heart rate.

This physician also tells of a relative telephoning him to get the name of a good heart specialist. He suggested one, and a few days later the heart specialist called him and indignantly asked why he had sent the patient for a heart examination when her heart was normal. The specialist told him he had no right to refer a case to him unless he had examined the patient's heart himself.

That many patients are referred to heart specialists with a diagnosis of "something wrong" with their heart when the heart is normal is reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Drs. Leonard J. Goldwater, Lewis H. Bronstein and Beatrice Kresky, New York. The title of their article is "Study of One Hundred and Seventy-Five Cardiacs Without Heart Disease."

"Patients referred to the Work Classification Unit are examined in accordance with standards developed by the New York Heart Association, consisting of a complete cardiological (heart) study based on accepted criteria (information regarding the heart.) All questionable cases are examined by two or more heart specialists. All persons seen at the unit were referred because of employment difficulties attributed to heart disease," the doctors report.

Of the 631 who were adequately studied, 175 (about 28 per cent) were found to have no heart disease at all.

What happens to a patient who has been told that there is something wrong with his heart, or if he thinks he has something wrong with his heart despite his physician's assurance that there is nothing wrong with his heart?

In this series of cases, a great percentage began to live the life of an invalid physically, remaining in bed a great part of the time. Even when on their feet, they avoided all forms of work, even light work. Advice given and followed included no lifting, a sit-down job only, no staid climbing, change occupation, no exercise.

Many of these non-cardiac patients, young men who hight have been gainfully employed, were advised to restrict or cut down on their activities.

The lesson for patients is that, if advised by a general practitioner that they have heart disease and to "take it easy," they ask their physician to refer them to a heart specialist or heart clinic. They have or have not heart disease, and should know the truth.

"Hot Dog!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The pact for a European Army which the foreign ministers initial today is not a lengthy document. It is quite short. But behind its written pages are thousands of unwritten chapters recording the hopes of the future, the history of the past, and the hurdles in the path of peace.

Historically, today marks the climax of 300 years of warfare, back and forth across the Rhine, back and forth between the French and German armies, back and forth—until the wheat fields and the forests were tangled with barbed wire and drenched with blood.

So this pact, putting the armies of two bitter enemies—France and Germany—under one flag and in one uniform, could be the most significant milestone for peace the world has ever seen. To those whose sons have gone forth to war year after year, to those who are so weary of war they are suspicious even of us, it could be the millenium.

But because it does carry the hopes of millions, and because the goals of the Kremlin do not flourish in the soil of peace, the European Army Pact faces terrific hurdles. Moscow is determined that this pact never shall go into full force. So the signing today will mark the beginning of the greatest war of nerves since V-E Day.

Jeers for Ridgway

Even before the ceremony today, Moscow has been martialing its forces to scare western Europe out of this momentous agreement. Here are the moves which will come to a climax in the immediate future:

General Matthew Ridgway's arrival will touch off a vociferous anti-American demonstration. He will be branded the butcher of Korea, held responsible for the highly exaggerated prisoner troubles in Korea, and accused as a user of germ warfare. Communist propaganda regarding germ warfare has been so successful that about half the people of Europe really believe it.

As a result, some of our best friends believe Ridgway's appointment to Paris was a mistake.

Soviet rearmament of East Germany is increasing. This is probably a psychological move made to worry the French and scare the West Germans away from the European Army pact.

Seize Berlin

There's been a heavy Russian build-up around Berlin. Simultaneously Communist civilians are reported planning to flock into West Berlin, stage riots, and give an excuse to Communist troops to enter the city. This time, it's reported, the Russians plan to seize both Berlin airports, thus making it impossible for us to repeat the airlift. In such event, Berlin would be starved out and have to capitulate. The alternative would be war.

European inflation is on the increase and is our second worst enemy. Some people claim it is even enemy No. 1. For, with prices high and wages low, inflation makes for communism. Communist parliament members in France and Italy are endeavoring to create as much economic instability as possible in order to increase inflation.

Inflation has brought substantial business to a standstill throughout western Europe, and this will be increased if there is any substantial cut in U. S. aid to Europe.

Ratification of the united army pact is uncertain, and will be made more so by the above events. This is Moscow's real goal—namely, to discourage, frighten, disillusion the peoples of France and Germany to such extent that their parliaments refuse to ratify the historic pact being initialed today.

Will History Repeat?

On the other hand, it remains a fact that a pact providing for a united European army, putting French and German troops under one uniform, is being initialed today. This could end 300 years of bloodshed. And this is more important than all the tricks Moscow is pulling out of the bag to block it.

Twenty-four years ago I was present in the Salon d'Horloge at the signing of the famed Kellogg-Briand pact. The August sun spread its slanting rays over the Seine, penetrated the deep-curtained windows of the Quai d'Orsay and danced among the great crystal candelabra of Louis XVI as Europe's statesmen scratched their names on the parchment outlawing war supposedly forever.

At that ceremony were such idealistic statesmen as Dr. Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, whose heart was broken by the Communists, Gustav Stresemann of Germany, who did his best to oppose Hitler, and Aristide Briand of France, who strove for better relations with Germany. They truly felt that war might be outlawed at that ceremony in the Salon D'Horloge in August, 1928.

But the background lurked forces of Fascism and Nationalism which gradually undercut that treaty and edged the world toward war.

Today the same forces, this time under the name of communism, are equally intent on wrecking the pact being signed. The question is, will they succeed? The answer, in reality, is up to us.

It is supposed to be axiomatic that history repeats. But nothing is really axiomatic. And if the more enlightened people of the world remember the mistakes of the past, history need not repeat.

France Feels Western World Permits Russia to Appear as Champion of Peace

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Paris, May 26 — Leaders of France have expressed to this correspondent in the last few days the opinion that Soviet Russia is being permitted to appear before the world as the champion of peace while the western allies pursue a negative and at times passive policy.

Basically, the French have the idea that, while conferences and talks with the Soviet may not produce results, it is important to keep an making gestures and peace moves so as to deprive the Communists in France and other countries of their principal stock in trade—the charge that the allies are preparing for offensive rather than defensive war.

This writer talked at length privately with President Vincent Auriol at the Elysse Palace. According to custom, he cannot be quoted, though he did laughingly authorize the statement that he was in good health. M. Auriol is a shrewd analyst of public opinion in France and is one of its elder statesmen. Although he doesn't have the executive powers which an American president possesses and the post has been regarded as merely a symbol of the unity of the government, it so happens that every week he does attend and preside over a meeting of the premier and the ministers of the cabinet. Thus he is in close touch with what is happening inside the government.

What impressed this writer after talking with the president, and later with other high officials, is the virtual unanimity which they exhibit about the main problems of France. These views may be summarized as follows:

1. France is not communistic, and the Communist influences are diminishing. Even the large Communist papers are losing circulation heavily. The causes of communistic strength at the polls are the result both of impoverishment of the country due to war and the artificial propagation of fear. France, having suffered heavily in two world wars, is easily aroused to more fear.

2. The average man's standard of living is still far too low, because wage increases have been offset by a rise in the cost of living. That is the area in which the Communist effort is constantly directed, playing upon discontent and privation.

3. Fear of war is being kept in the minds of the French people in various ways—mostly through the mischief produced by clever Moscow propaganda, which at the moment is exaggerating the dangers that can arise in rearming Germany. To offset this, French officials think that more conferences with the highest officials of Russia are necessary, even though they lead to deadlocks. The theory is that it must be demonstrated, more and more, how the Russians are blocking a settlement. To remain aloof and answer notes every now and then isn't considered sufficiently effective, even as counter-propaganda.

4. The French fear the Germans as much as they do the Russians. Many who have lived under German occupation keep saying Russian occupation couldn't be worse. It is to meet this uniformed view that domestic propaganda is needed, and, unless that propaganda is also backed up and dramatized by action in the international field, the fear complex can produce a sentiment here which can affect adversely efforts to unite the western countries either in a European defense army or in a United States of Europe. Both of these concepts for European unity have powerful support in the government, though the idea of the European defense army with German units in it is going to be hard to swallow, despite all the safeguards being promised.

5. There is genuine concern about American foreign policy and apprehension lest the elections in the United States this year produce a drastic change in direction and purpose. This leads some officials to suggest that maybe another effort should be made to convince Soviet Russia that the best way to handle the German problem is to neutralize Germany. Along with this would go a plan for an over-all policy declaration by the western powers which would set forth their aims and the conditions for a lasting peace with the Soviet Union. The chief feature of such a plan would be a joint western demand that Russia withdraw from the eastern provinces of Germany or work out a settlement with Germany on the disposition of those territories. The idea would be to call at the same time for the demilitarization of Germany, the withdrawal of all occupation troops from that country, and the placing of an international force, including Russian and American forces, to stand guard at both borders of Germany.

This latter plan is recommended by one of the highest French officials as one that should be put up to Russia, and, if it fails, it would then be obvious to everybody that there is no alternative but to make the calculated risk of rearming Germany as part of the western alliance.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I was touched almost to tears when President Truman told a group of visitors that he had the right and power to seize the American Press in conceivable circumstances and our newspapers were set to babbling about themselves as the voice of the people, the proposition set me to meditating and I suddenly had to admit to myself that the newspapers and magazines, the radio and television, are not the voice of the people at all but the voices of rather soulless corporations.

The so-called editors are employes, hired executives, many of whom got there because they were meek in the presence of the front office, and more valuable as desk men than as creative or productive editorial hands such as writers and reporters. The man who holds one of the most lucrative positions of this kind in American journalism never did cover a story, can't write a lick, has no imagination, lacks both courage and initiative and got his job by the favor of a capricious nut after he had outlived a succession of predecessors.

Most of our giants of journalism have been eccentrics. Mr. Bennett exiled himself to Europe after he had performed an act of misbehavior in a Victorian New York home. Mr. Pulitzer was described by one of his familiars as a man who would split a word to swear. I could give you an illustration which would not be at all rude by the ordinary standards of our day but we have adopted in out style-book a set of priggish inhibitions which forbid.

On the other hand, daily newspapers do not hesitate to present as legitimate Washington News incredible statements by rascals completely indifferent to truth. For home-grown, independent editorial opinion our press offers motivated, slanted party propaganda bought by the yard.

We also print ill-drawn monstrosities called comic strips in some of which vile pornography is flaunted under some imaginary artistic license and lurid horrors in which rats devour cadavers. And we wail about the shortage and cost of paper.

Mr. Hearst, the most lavish employer in journalism in his day, imported castles, stone by stone from Europe, one of which still rests in the crates in New York. He maintained at San Simeon a principality with a zoo of spotted, striped and humped ruminants and about 50 dachshunds. He raised editorial salaries abruptly when he went into Chicago and, like McGraw in baseball, lifted his subordinates from a rough and rowdy social status to such a dignity as the individual himself, could maintain. That is, he paid his people enough to be laundered and pressed if they would. Many would. He was a superb editorial writer with a knack of making people think his thoughts were original with them.

Northcliffe was crazy in his latter days and we may wonder how crazy he was how long before he died. He was bad for English journalism, though. Scripps was a tight-fisted booze-fighting tyrant with a fake reputation for generous humanity which wrung many a sour grimace from ink-stained wretches who nickeled along from pay-day to pay-day on his stingy pay. Roy Howard, who succeeded him, has obscured his virtues to some extent behind a hay-seed's passion for striped shirts and hats with funny feathers on them.

In today's journalism, few newspapers are identified with individual personalities and few still carry the name of any editor. They are not edited, but assembled.

The parties who enjoy the title of editor have gone Rotarian and hold grandiose professional galas in New York and Washington in the spring of the year at which the AP's revolving prelacy make orations to themselves in sombre tones which only emphasize the amoebic editorial character of the body of journalism in a fateful time. Lacking a mandate from the people, unknown in fact to all but a few of their own colleagues in this declining trade, these office executives of impersonal institutions pool their own

He is known to his co-workers as "The Deacon", but when you see him working with tools you would never guess that he once served for twenty years as a missionary among the hill people west of Bombay, India. He's every ounce a craftsman then.

It was soon after Pearl Harbor that "The Deacon" decided to turn his natural proficiency with his hands to essential war production. He went to work with Sedgwick Machine Works, where lifts for raising planes to aircraft carrier decks and ammunition hoists for high explosives were being produced.

Like many other Sedgwick workers, Ernest stayed on after the war, because he appreciated the friendly atmosphere in the plant and the pride of accomplishment in helping to produce products which make for easier living and working in America. His associates appreciate "The Deacon" too, and he has represented them in many union matters for Local 1598, International Association of Machinists of which he was president. He also has become a sub-foreman in the Sedgwick plant.

But, with all these activities, "The Deacon" hasn't forgotten his first love. He preaches up and down the Hudson Valley on call. His fame as a preacher has spread and, recently, when he accompanied his son who is in the U. S. Navy to a new station in the South, a local church invited him to preach.

Ernest Glenn is typical of the friendly, interesting people who work here at Sedgwick—men with whom it's a pleasure to work and who are always willing to help their fellow workers learn more about our business of producing equipment for vertical transportation.

Tito Has Birthday

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, May 26 (AP)—Relay runners bearing symbolic silver torches from this country's seven provinces brought "flaming greetings" to Premier Marshal Tito yesterday on his 60th birthday. Robust and in high humor, the Communist ruler celebrated at his palace and recounted to a throng of visitors the "major progress" Yugoslavia has made since the war. But the tough antagonist of his Kremlin-dominated neighbors cautioned that Yugoslavia must remain alert.

Oneonta, N. The group re-elected officers including George W. Mooney, White Plains, second vice president.

Have you met Poughkeepsie's Craftsman-Preacher?

You can truly say that Ernest Glenn, Poughkeepsie's craftsman-preacher, works with both his heart and his hands. For whether Ernest is shaping things of metal or wood, or preaching a sermon on Sunday, he puts everything he has into the job at hand. He is known to his co-workers as "The Deacon", but when you see him working with tools you would never guess that he once served for twenty years as a missionary among the hill people west of Bombay, India. Bill Duffy Dies; One-Time Manager Of Primo Carnera

Lynbrook, N. Y. May 26 (AP)—William J. (Big Bill) Duffy, notorious prohibition era figure and one-time manager of Primo Carnera, died yesterday in relative obscurity.

Death came to the 69-year-old ex-convict at the Long Island home of a daughter.

Duffy was appointed Carnera's manager when Ownie Madden, the beer baron and racketeer, and a syndicate brought the huge Italian over to fight in this country.

Carnera had a brief reign as world heavyweight champion in 1933.

All through the 1920's, Duffy's name was featured with speakeasies and Broadway night clubs. In his career he had many brushes with the law and served three prison terms—1901 for burglary, 1910 for robbery, and 1934 for fereral income tax evasion.

In recent years, Duffy operated night clubs on Long Island.

Dobie, 39, a writer and State Department employe, disappeared from the ferryboat while en route here to visit his father, R. L. Dobie. Editor Arrested

Paris, May 26 (AP)—French police have jailed Chief Editor Andre Stil of the Communist daily newspaper l'Humanite. They say he's among the organizers of Red demonstrations against Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, new supreme allied Atlantic Pact commander for Europe. Stil, who won a Stalin prize this year, was charged with violating an 1848 law making it an offense to organize or incite a mob.

Against Spud Ceilings

Detroit, May 26 (AP)—Job truckers supplying the 6,000 independent markets of the Detroit area went on strike today against potato ceiling prices. More than 300 trucks blockaded the big Detroit Union Produce Terminal as their owners refused to buy from commission men. Fresh fruits and vegetables shipped in Sunday night and early today were threatened with spoilage.

Girl, 7, Suffers Fractured Leg in Traffic Mishap

Maryalice Cantwell, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cantwell, of 25 Abeel street, suffered a fractured leg and other injuries in one of two city traffic mishaps Sunday and today.

A police record at 8:30 p. m., Sunday said Charles Weaver, 22, of 100 West Union street, reported striking the child at Newkirk avenue and Chambers street as he was driving east on Newkirk avenue. She was taken by Weaver to Kingston Hospital, where her condition was reported as "good" today.

The report said the child "ran off the curb." She suffered injuries to the left leg and forehead besides the fracture of the right leg, police said.

Police headquarters was notified at 3:24 a. m. today that a man was knocking on doors in the vicinity of Abeel and DeWitt streets, and an investigation by Officers William Hanley and Harold DeGraff revealed that it was John C. Greene, of 64 Hooker avenue, Poughkeepsie, whose car had gone partly over a bank on Abeel street near the railroad bridge.

The car was towed from the scene after the officers arrived. Greene reported no injuries.

Two Held for Trying To Sell Army Blankets

S/Sgt. Sidney Grant, of Stewart Field, Newburgh, and Pvt. James Rowles, 136 South Wall street, were arrested early Saturday afternoon by Detective Clarence Brophy on second degree larceny charges for allegedly having attempted to sell army blankets here.

A police report at 12:30 p. m., said they were arrested as the result of a report by Officer Carl Janasiewicz that two men were attempting to sell the blankets. Detective Brophy said that the men had about 30 blankets valued at $16 each.

The two were turned over to S/Sgts. Kenneth Sutton and Robert Miner and were brought to Stewart Field.

Detective Brophy said that Rowles fainted when he was arrested while allegedly trying "to make a deal" with a North Front street store keeper. Grant was arrested on South Wall street.

Rowles had been stationed at Camp Jackson in South Carolina and was due to go back there, Brophy said.

Forgets Two Parked Cars

If you are the type person who occasionally forget where you park your car, here's consolation. A gentleman from South Carolina Sunday forgot where he parked two cars, and here's the 9:32 a. m., police blotter record: The distressed South Carolinian stopped in at Perry's taxi office to report that he had made a Saturday night stop in this city en route to the south with two cars attached by a towing bar. He had been "celebrating a bit," the report said, and forgot where he had left the vehicles. Officers Edward Leonard and Earl Schoonmaker located them in the parking grounds to the rear of the Trailways bus terminal, Broadway and Pine Grove avenue.

Highland Man Injured

Salvatore Crimi, 17, of New Paltz road, Highland, received minor lacerations of the forehead in a two-car accident on Route 44-55 one and a half miles west of Highland about 3 p. m. Sunday, state police reported. Troopers said the left front end of the automobile driven by Crimi was badly damaged when it was in collision with an automobile driven by John I. Heddy, 19, of Middletown. The right rear end of Heddy's automobile was damaged, troopers said, in the accident which occurred when Heddy was slowing to turn into a private driveway. No arrests were made.

Potato Plan

New York, May 26 (AP)—Paul Henkel, president of the Society of Restaurateurs, suggested today that restaurants institute "potatoless days" to combat the current shortage and black market. "If all establishments would institute two days a week when there would be absolutely no white potatoes served or sold and on other days eliminate potatoes as side dishes unless requested, I am sure that this black market soon would be broken," Henkel said.

Would Change Prayer

New York, May 26 (AP)—A move to get Protestant churches to change part of the wording of the Lord's Prayer was initiated today. The plan, approved after keen debate at the 164th annual general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., would replace the word, "debts" or "trespasses" in the prayer, with the word, "sins."

June 5th Events

communities will join in the festivities on June 5. Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will play host on that day to the annual regional conference of the Hudson Valley Council of the patriotic order. Delegates from Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Beacon, Carmel, Saugerties, Catskill, Goshen, Liberty, Spring Valley, Hudson and Rhinebeck will conduct an all-day program at the local Chapter House and at the Green. The Dutch Settlers' Society of Albany are chartering a bus for a pilgrimage to this historic city on the same day. In addition, a group of 20 ladies from Pawling, N. Y., will come to the city for the celebration. The latter two groups will lunch at a local restaurant and hear a speaker from the Tercentennial Committee who will outline for them the purposes of the 300th Anniversary Celebration and the historical background of the community. The Pawling group will tour the village of Hurley, the town from which some of their ancestors left to settle in Dutchess county. All of these groups are expected to visit the Senate House and Museum for a guided tour.

Mrs. Celeste K. Porter, vice president of the Anniversary committee, is chairman of the arrangements for the June 5th observance.

As an interesting sidelight, birthday greetings have been received from the Mayor of Capetown, Union of South Africa, who notes the cordial bond which has been forged between the two communities which are celebrating 300 years of existence in 1952. Howard K. Lewis served as an emissary of this city in carrying greetings to South Africa in April.

The offices of the Anniversary committee continues to be deluged with national and foreign publications sent by friends which carry articles or pictures of Queen Juliana's visit. This week, a copy of "The Illustrated London News", the British weekly picture magazine was received which carries a picture of the Queen laying a wreath on the Peter Stuyvesant statue on Academy Green, with the caption over the spread of pictures, "The Dutch Royal Visit to the United States; Queen Juliana at Washington and Kingston, N. Y." Just as though those were the only two cities of importance on the Queen's itinerary. "de Volkskrant," a daily of Amsterdam, Holland, carries a lavishly illustrated article dealing in detail with the history of Kingston.

Looking beyond June 5th, the committee is working hard on high spots of the celebration to occur in July. The Art Show at the George Washington School, under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Emily Chadbonurne and Mrs. George V. D. Hutton, is already focussing national attention on Kingston. The show to run a month from July 17, is to feature priceless art treasures with a local significance, some of which have never before been publicly exhibited.

Historical Pageant

Production of "The Land of Beauty," the historical pageant under the direction of Mrs. Raymond Gross and Irving Rose, which will be presented at the Municipal Stadium on four night commencing July 23, is moving on apace. Citizens representing the YMCA, the American Association of University Women, the American Legion, Port Ewen Drum Corps, the VFW Auxiliary, the Boys Club, the public schools, Wiltwyck Chapter D.A.R., and the Children of the American Revolution, the Junior League, Knights of Columbus, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Elks, Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary, Sorosis, the Fellowship Guild of the First Presbyterian Church, the Association for the Betterment of the Negro Race, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cubs and Brownies, St. Mary's Society and Women's Auxiliary, the Power Boat Association, the Coach House Players, YWCA, Ulster County Historical Society, Temple Emanuel Men's Club and Sisterhood, and the three service clubs, Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary, have already volunteered to serve in the cast of 500. While casting is about to commence, the producers want to be assured that no citizens will be denied a part in this civic project. A limited number of additional volunteers will be accepted by Mrs. Gross or Mr. Rose.

Costuming, a tremendous chore, has been undertaken by a committee under the leadership of Chester Baltz, Jr., who is being assisted by Mr. Smith, of C. A. Baltz & Sons as official pattern-maker, and the Home Bureau and the Women's Club of the YWCA. The committee is particularly anxious to hear from any Kingstonian who might have authentic costumes which could be loaned for the pageant.

All in all, Kingston is a busy—and a happy—and a proud town in this tercentennial year of 1952!

POWs Could

122 from gunshot wounds and 178 from natural causes.

There are 689 prisoner graves in Koje Cemetery but records of POW deaths before July 2 are not available.

Gelenger said almost daily prisoners are treated after being beaten or tortured by other inmates.

In one incident last September, a POW court tried, convicted and executed 15 prisoners. Nine bodies had been burned before camp officials learned of the killings and sent trops to recover the remaining bodies.

The separation of anti-Communists from prisoners favoring Red rule has reduced some prisoner brutality. But many anti-Reds are still inside the compounds. Most of the conflict is between these factions but homosexuality also is presumed to cause some of the trouble. At Pusan allied military police have removed Red leaders from the last two Communist dominated compounds at the UN POW hospital there.

General Boatner told newly arrived combat-wise Canadian and British troops on Koje that UN guards now could control prisoners outside the island's 17 POW compounds.

Sparklers Illegal, Says Police Chief

Police Chief Raymond VanBuren announced today that while the sale of some types of toy pistol caps are permitted under provisions of the state fireworks law, it prohibits the sale or possession of sparklers or "sparkers" as they are referred to in the law.

There was a time when the sale of sparklers was permitted, but they are banned under latest provisions of the law.

The law allows "toy pistols, toy canes, toy guns or other devices in which paper caps containing 25 one hundredths grains or less of explosive compound . . . if they are so constructed that the hand cannot come in contact with the cap when it is in place for use."

Toy pistol paper caps, which contain less than 20 one hundreths grains of explosive mixture are permitted.

The sale or possession of all other types of fireworks is prohibited.

U. S., Britain

contract and the European treaty have the preservation of peace and freedom as their aims. At times they appeared to be speaking directly to Moscow when they declared their unanimous goal was to unite all Germany by peaceful means.

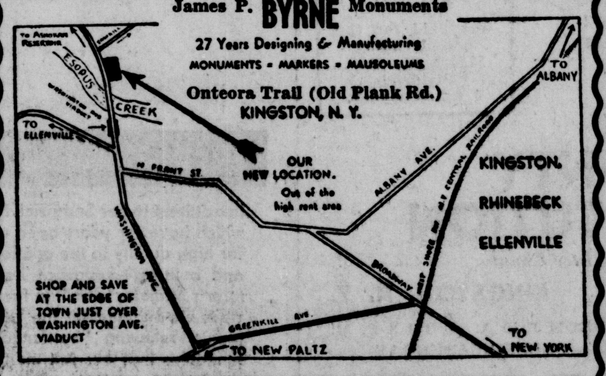

Moscow has charged that the West is sealing division of Germany and sowing the seeds of World War 3.

The peace contract, in effect, gives West Germany near sovereignty in exchange for troops in the projected European army. It ends the occupation but allied troops will still remain in Germany as part of the western defense force.

Plunges to Death

New York, May 26 (AP)—Mrs. May Grieb, 54, sister of the late boxing manager Joe Jacobs, fell or jumped to her death last night from a ninth-floor hotel window. Mrs. Grieb, a resident of the Empire Hotel, plunged from the apartment of a woman friend in the hotel after locking herself in alone. Mrs. Grieb's husband, Lawrence, and her brother, city detective Caswell Jacobs, were called from the Grieb apartment one floor below when the woman friend found Mrs. Grieb locked in. She had plunged before they gained entrance. Joe Jacobs managed former world heavyweight champion Max Schmeling and other fighters.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 26 (AP)—Stock prices were barely steady today in the first market session of a holiday-shortened week.

In the narrow mixture of gains and losses, few changes ranged to as much as a dollar a share. Chemical issues acted a bit better than most; many of the rails were depressed slightly.

This week will see only four days of stock trading. The exchange closes Friday for Memorial Day and on the following day starts its summer schedule of Saturday closings.

Firemen were still at the scene of a stubborn blaze in the house of Ralph Erena, 73 Pine Grove avenue at 2 p. m. today. They were called at 11:58 a. m., for a fire which originated in the basement and worked its way up along siding to the floors above and the roof. Men and equipment from Central, Cornell stations and Wicks Engine Company responded. Another call to 58 Pine Grove avenue Sunday morning was due to smoke caused by smoke from a defective heater.

Gardiner Is Held On Burglar Charge

Clinton F. Gardiner, 39, no home, has been scheduled for a hearing Thursday before Justice of the Peace Philip A. Lyons of the Town of Marlborough on a third degree burglary charge.

Gardiner has been accused by state police of breaking and entering the Joseph Rosanno liquor store in Marlborough and taking a quantity of liquor.

Meanwhile, the Kingston Police Department has filed a detainer with the sheriff's office, notifying them that when the burglary charge is disposed of, Gardiner is wanted to answer a charge of violation of Section 1694 of the Penal Law, "escaping custody after sentence," a misdemeanor.

Police said Gardiner disappeared from City Court on Friday morning after being sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge Raymond Mino on a public intoxication charge. He was arrested at Marlborough late Saturday morning by John Metzer, of the state police B.C.I., who was investigating the reported entry of the liquor store.

Israeli Troops Blamed

Amman, Jordan, May 26 (AP)—Arab Legion headquarters charged today that three Arab farmers and three donkeys were killed yesterday by Jewish soldiers who crossed over the armistice line into Jordan from Israel near Ramallah. The communique said the Israelis also fired about 200 shots at two UN truce observers.

"I make less than $5,000 a year . . . can I buy stock?"

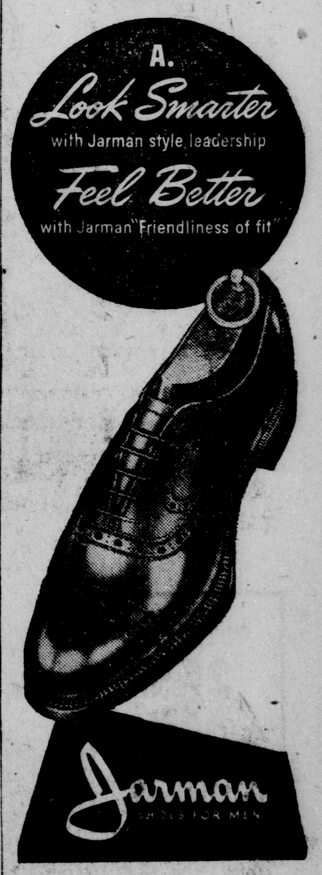

One automobile company has 400,000 stockholders. Half of them own 20 shares or less.

In a big utility, more than one quarter of a million stockholders own 5 shares or less.

That's your answer, isn't it? Even if your surplus capital is less than $1,000, it is no problem to own stock. The real problem is to pick a stock that is suitable for you.

Come to our office, tell us how much (or how little) you want to invest, and what you're investing for. Let us help you find an investment plan designed for your specific needs.

Bill Duffy Dies; One-Time Manager Of Primo Carnera

Lynbrook, N. Y. May 26 (AP)—William J. (Big Bill) Duffy, notorious prohibition era figure and one-time manager of Primo Carnera, died yesterday in relative obscurity.

Death came to the 69-year-old ex-convict at the Long Island home of a daughter.

Duffy was appointed Carnera's manager when Ownie Madden, the beer baron and racketeer, and a syndicate brought the huge Italian over to fight in this country.

Carnera had a brief reign as world heavyweight champion in 1933.

All through the 1920's, Duffy's name was featured with speakeasies and Broadway night clubs. In his career he had many brushes with the law and served three prison terms—1901 for burglary, 1910 for robbery, and 1934 for fereral income tax evasion.

In recent years, Duffy operated night clubs on Long Island.

Dobie, 39, a writer and State Department employe, disappeared from the ferryboat while en route here to visit his father, R. L. Dobie. He had driven down from Washington, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Henry Robinson, of East Williston, N. Y.

Editor Arrested

Paris, May 26 (AP)—French police have jailed Chief Editor Andre Stil of the Communist daily newspaper l'Humanite. They say he's among the organizers of Red demonstrations against Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, new supreme allied Atlantic Pact commander for Europe. Stil, who won a Stalin prize this year, was charged with violating an 1848 law making it an offense to organize or incite a mob.

Against Spud Ceilings

Detroit, May 26 (AP)—Job truckers supplying the 6,000 independent markets of the Detroit area went on strike today against potato ceiling prices. More than 300 trucks blockaded the big Detroit Union Produce Terminal as their owners refused to buy from commission men. Fresh fruits and vegetables shipped in Sunday night and early today were threatened with spoilage.

Girl, 7, Suffers Fractured Leg in Traffic Mishap

Maryalice Cantwell, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cantwell, of 25 Abeel street, suffered a fractured leg and other injuries in one of two city traffic mishaps Sunday and today.

A police record at 8:30 p. m., Sunday said Charles Weaver, 22, of 100 West Union street, reported striking the child at Newkirk avenue and Chambers street as he was driving east on Newkirk avenue. She was taken by Weaver to Kingston Hospital, where her condition was reported as "good" today.

The report said the child "ran off the curb." She suffered injuries to the left leg and forehead besides the fracture of the right leg, police said.

Police headquarters was notified at 3:24 a. m. today that a man was knocking on doors in the vicinity of Abeel and DeWitt streets, and an investigation by Officers William Hanley and Harold DeGraff revealed that it was John C. Greene, of 64 Hooker avenue, Poughkeepsie, whose car had gone partly over a bank on Abeel street near the railroad bridge.

The car was towed from the scene after the officers arrived. Greene reported no injuries.

Two Held for Trying To Sell Army Blankets

S/Sgt. Sidney Grant, of Stewart Field, Newburgh, and Pvt. James Rowles, 136 South Wall street, were arrested early Saturday afternoon by Detective Clarence Brophy on second degree larceny charges for allegedly having attempted to sell army blankets here.

A police report at 12:30 p. m., said they were arrested as the result of a report by Officer Carl Janasiewicz that two men were attempting to sell the blankets. Detective Brophy said that the men had about 30 blankets valued at $16 each.

The two were turned over to S/Sgts. Kenneth Sutton and Robert Miner and were brought to Stewart Field.

Detective Brophy said that Rowles fainted when he was arrested while allegedly trying "to make a deal" with a North Front street store keeper. Grant was arrested on South Wall street.

Rowles had been stationed at Camp Jackson in South Carolina and was due to go back there, Brophy said.

Forgets Two Parked Cars

If you are the type person who occasionally forget where you park your car, here's consolation. A gentleman from South Carolina Sunday forgot where he parked two cars, and here's the 9:32 a. m., police blotter record: The distressed South Carolinian stopped in at Perry's taxi office to report that he had made a Saturday night stop in this city en route to the south with two cars attached by a towing bar. He had been "celebrating a bit," the report said, and forgot where he had left the vehicles. Officers Edward Leonard and Earl Schoonmaker located them in the parking grounds to the rear of the Trailways bus terminal, Broadway and Pine Grove avenue.

Highland Man Injured

Salvatore Crimi, 17, of New Paltz road, Highland, received minor lacerations of the forehead in a two-car accident on Route 44-55 one and a half miles west of Highland about 3 p. m. Sunday, state police reported. Troopers said the left front end of the automobile driven by Crimi was badly damaged when it was in collision with an automobile driven by John I. Heddy, 19, of Middletown. The right rear end of Heddy's automobile was damaged, troopers said, in the accident which occurred when Heddy was slowing to turn into a private driveway. No arrests were made.

Potato Plan

New York, May 26 (AP)—Paul Henkel, president of the Society of Restaurateurs, suggested today that restaurants institute "potatoless days" to combat the current shortage and black market. "If all establishments would institute two days a week when there would be absolutely no white potatoes served or sold and on other days eliminate potatoes as side dishes unless requested, I am sure that this black market soon would be broken," Henkel said.

Would Change Prayer

New York, May 26 (AP)—A move to get Protestant churches to change part of the wording of the Lord's Prayer was initiated today. The plan, approved after keen debate at the 164th annual general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., would replace the word, "debts" or "trespasses" in the prayer, with the word, "sins."

June 5th Events

communities will join in the festivities on June 5. Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will play host on that day to the annual regional conference of the Hudson Valley Council of the patriotic order. Delegates from Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Beacon, Carmel, Saugerties, Catskill, Goshen, Liberty, Spring Valley, Hudson and Rhinebeck will conduct an all-day program at the local Chapter House and at the Green. The Dutch Settlers' Society of Albany are chartering a bus for a pilgrimage to this historic city on the same day. In addition, a group of 20 ladies from Pawling, N. Y., will come to the city for the celebration. The latter two groups will lunch at a local restaurant and hear a speaker from the Tercentennial Committee who will outline for them the purposes of the 300th Anniversary Celebration and the historical background of the community. The Pawling group will tour the village of Hurley, the town from which some of their ancestors left to settle in Dutchess county. All of these groups are expected to visit the Senate House and Museum for a guided tour.

Mrs. Celeste K. Porter, vice president of the Anniversary committee, is chairman of the arrangements for the June 5th observance.

As an interesting sidelight, birthday greetings have been received from the Mayor of Capetown, Union of South Africa, who notes the cordial bond which has been forged between the two communities which are celebrating 300 years of existence in 1952. Howard K. Lewis served as an emissary of this city in carrying greetings to South Africa in April.

The offices of the Anniversary committee continues to be deluged with national and foreign publications sent by friends which carry articles or pictures of Queen Juliana's visit. This week, a copy of "The Illustrated London News", the British weekly picture magazine was received which carries a picture of the Queen laying a wreath on the Peter Stuyvesant statue on Academy Green, with the caption over the spread of pictures, "The Dutch Royal Visit to the United States; Queen Juliana at Washington and Kingston, N. Y." Just as though those were the only two cities of importance on the Queen's itinerary. "de Volkskrant," a daily of Amsterdam, Holland, carries a lavishly illustrated article dealing in detail with the history of Kingston.

Looking beyond June 5th, the committee is working hard on high spots of the celebration to occur in July. The Art Show at the George Washington School, under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Emily Chadbonurne and Mrs. George V. D. Hutton, is already focussing national attention on Kingston. The show to run a month from July 17, is to feature priceless art treasures with a local significance, some of which have never before been publicly exhibited.

Historical Pageant

Production of "The Land of Beauty," the historical pageant under the direction of Mrs. Raymond Gross and Irving Rose, which will be presented at the Municipal Stadium on four night commencing July 23, is moving on apace. Citizens representing the YMCA, the American Association of University Women, the American Legion, Port Ewen Drum Corps, the VFW Auxiliary, the Boys Club, the public schools, Wiltwyck Chapter D.A.R., and the Children of the American Revolution, the Junior League, Knights of Columbus, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Elks, Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary, Sorosis, the Fellowship Guild of the First Presbyterian Church, the Association for the Betterment of the Negro Race, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cubs and Brownies, St. Mary's Society and Women's Auxiliary, the Power Boat Association, the Coach House Players, YWCA, Ulster County Historical Society, Temple Emanuel Men's Club and Sisterhood, and the three service clubs, Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary, have already volunteered to serve in the cast of 500. While casting is about to commence, the producers want to be assured that no citizens will be denied a part in this civic project. A limited number of additional volunteers will be accepted by Mrs. Gross or Mr. Rose.

Costuming, a tremendous chore, has been undertaken by a committee under the leadership of Chester Baltz, Jr., who is being assisted by Mr. Smith, of C. A. Baltz & Sons as official pattern-maker, and the Home Bureau and the Women's Club of the YWCA. The committee is particularly anxious to hear from any Kingstonian who might have authentic costumes which could be loaned for the pageant.

All in all, Kingston is a busy—and a happy—and a proud town in this tercentennial year of 1952!

POWs Could

122 from gunshot wounds and 178 from natural causes.

There are 689 prisoner graves in Koje Cemetery but records of POW deaths before July 2 are not available.

Gelenger said almost daily prisoners are treated after being beaten or tortured by other inmates.

In one incident last September, a POW court tried, convicted and executed 15 prisoners. Nine bodies had been burned before camp officials learned of the killings and sent trops to recover the remaining bodies.

The separation of anti-Communists from prisoners favoring Red rule has reduced some prisoner brutality. But many anti-Reds are still inside the compounds. Most of the conflict is between these factions but homosexuality also is presumed to cause some of the trouble. At Pusan allied military police have removed Red leaders from the last two Communist dominated compounds at the UN POW hospital there.

General Boatner told newly arrived combat-wise Canadian and British troops on Koje that UN guards now could control prisoners outside the island's 17 POW compounds.

Sparklers Illegal, Says Police Chief

Police Chief Raymond VanBuren announced today that while the sale of some types of toy pistol caps are permitted under provisions of the state fireworks law, it prohibits the sale or possession of sparklers or "sparkers" as they are referred to in the law.

There was a time when the sale of sparklers was permitted, but they are banned under latest provisions of the law.

The law allows "toy pistols, toy canes, toy guns or other devices in which paper caps containing 25 one hundredths grains or less of explosive compound . . . if they are so constructed that the hand cannot come in contact with the cap when it is in place for use."

Toy pistol paper caps, which contain less than 20 one hundreths grains of explosive mixture are permitted.

The sale or possession of all other types of fireworks is prohibited.

contract and the European treaty have the preservation of peace and freedom as their aims. At times they appeared to be speaking directly to Moscow when they declared their unanimous goal was to unite all Germany by peaceful means.

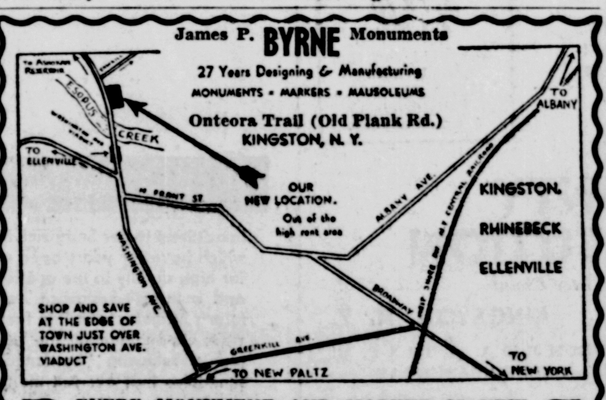

Moscow has charged that the West is sealing division of Germany and sowing the seeds of World War 3.

The peace contract, in effect, gives West Germany near sovereignty in exchange for troops in the projected European army. It ends the occupation but allied troops will still remain in Germany as part of the western defense force.

Plunges to Death

New York, May 26 (AP)—Mrs. May Grieb, 54, sister of the late boxing manager Joe Jacobs, fell or jumped to her death last night from a ninth-floor hotel window. Mrs. Grieb, a resident of the Empire Hotel, plunged from the apartment of a woman friend in the hotel after locking herself in alone. Mrs. Grieb's husband, Lawrence, and her brother, city detective Caswell Jacobs, were called from the Grieb apartment one floor below when the woman friend found Mrs. Grieb locked in. She had plunged before they gained entrance. Joe Jacobs managed former world heavyweight champion Max Schmeling and other fighters.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 26 (AP)—Stock prices were barely steady today in the first market session of a holiday-shortened week.

In the narrow mixture of gains and losses, few changes ranged to as much as a dollar a share. Chemical issues acted a bit better than most; many of the rails were depressed slightly.

This week will see only four days of stock trading. The exchange closes Friday for Memorial Day and on the following day starts its summer schedule of Saturday closings.

Gardiner Is Held On Burglar Charge

Clinton F. Gardiner, 39, no home, has been scheduled for a hearing Thursday before Justice of the Peace Philip A. Lyons of the Town of Marlborough on a third degree burglary charge.

Gardiner has been accused by state police of breaking and entering the Joseph Rosanno liquor store in Marlborough and taking a quantity of liquor.

Meanwhile, the Kingston Police Department has filed a detainer with the sheriff's office, notifying them that when the burglary charge is disposed of, Gardiner is wanted to answer a charge of violation of Section 1694 of the Penal Law, "escaping custody after sentence," a misdemeanor.

Police said Gardiner disappeared from City Court on Friday morning after being sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge Raymond Mino on a public intoxication charge. He was arrested at Marlborough late Saturday morning by John Metzer, of the state police B.C.I., who was investigating the reported entry of the liquor store.

"I make less than $5,000 a year... can I buy stock?"

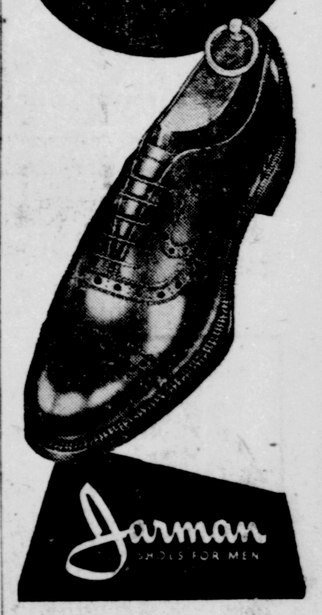

One automobile company has 400,000 stockholders. Half of them own 20 shares or less.

In a big utility, more than one quarter of a million stockholders own 5 shares or less.

That's your answer, isn't it? Even if your surplus capital is less than $1,000, it is no problem to own stock. The real problem is to pick a stock that is suitable for you.

Come to our office, tell us how much (or how little) you want to invest, and what you're investing for. Let us help you find an investment plan designed for your specific needs.

Re-assessment Program

May 22, 1952

Editor, The Freeman:

We would appreciate your printing the following:

The town board of the town of Esopus, working in close cooperation with the Town of Esopus Taxpayers' Association, Inc., has instigated a program of re-assessment that is just about completed by the local assessors.

The aim of the new program is to ease the tax burden of the individual taxpayers of that township, whose assessments are entirely out of line with the other neighboring townships.

The re-assessment is being handled with little or no cost to the taxpayers, through the cooperation of many of the members of the Taxpayers' Association, who have voluntarily aided the assessors in the program.

Edward Eckert, the present supervisor, is determined to correct the inequities that existed and reduce the taxes of the individual taxpayer. In the last election campaign he was endorsed by the Taxpayers' Association as its candidate and he is making every effort to fulfill his campaign promises.

The Taxpayers' Association in the township has been steadily increasing its membership and has been cooperating with the town board closely so that a spirit of harmony now exists in comparison with the unrest of the residents of that township last year.

A meeting of the taxpayers' group is to be held on July 17 at the town hall in Port Ewen in order that a progress report be given to the members. Mr. Eckert and other members of the town board will speak at that time.

Thank you for your past cooperation.

Yours truly
JOHN GRADY
President

Kingston High School News

Assemblies Planned

Activities of Kingston High School have fallen off sharply since May Day. With exams getting closer, clubs are winding up their projects and closing for the year.

For the first time in months extra curricular activities have become a minor interest to more than 2,000 students who in another two weeks will be taking final examinations. However, plans at Kingston High include:

Early in June the school will close its series of assemblies with two special programs, the Letter Assembly and the Awards Assembly, on June 6 and 10, respectively.

In the Letter Assembly, members of the various sports teams will be recognized, and awarded a large "K," for their work on the teams.

The Awards Assembly is to honor those winning cash and scholarships. Some of the prizes are—for the highest average in French, Latin and in German, also for the highest average obtained in five or more years of languages.

Future Homemakers

Future Homemakers of America plan to send delegates to both the annual state meeting at Morrisville Technical School, June 6, 7, 8 and to the Future Homemakers camp, Oswegatchic, Croton, July 6-19.

At its final meeting last week the club elected officers for next year. Those chosen were Kathleen Davis, president; Betty Ellsworth, vice-president; Arlita Barringer, secretary; Sara Folwell, treasurer.

During the year the club has made cloth scrap books for the children's wards of the two local hospitals and woolen slippers for the veteran's hospital.

Mansfields Entertain

On Friday, May 23, the shooting Mansfields, a family consisting of father, mother, and daughter performed before both assemblies of KHS.

With their skill in the use of guns they were widely acclaimed as the best performers who have visited KHS this year. They have visited over 400 high schools in the east and mid-western sections of the country this year.

Besides his great skill at shooting, Mr. Mansfield possesses a great sense of humor which the students enjoyed as much as their trick shots.

Such difficult shots as shooting moving targets while looking in a mirror, shooting between their legs and shooting while sitting down and looking through a mirror were performed with such ease that the students were left amazed.

During the show Mr. Mansfield called for volunteers to try their luck at shooting. Among the students were Al Aspermonte, Joe Stine, Pat Manfro, Chris Brown, Tom Morrissey, Bill Lasher, Bob Perry and Pete Camp.

Drama Class Plays

As the oral part of their final examination, the drama class students will present five one-act plays beginning June 5.

$15,584 Reported In YMCA Drive

A total of $15,584 has been collected on the YMCA drive to date, James E. Tobin, general chairman, reported today. Returns from some workers are still incomplete and the work is being continued until finished, Tobin added.

The report also indicated that Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith still stand as top collectors with $564.

The campaign office is still open every day from 9 a. m. until 10 p. m. for workers to clear on names and reports. If the office cannot be reached by calling 1100, workers may call 4311. About 400 prospect cards are still to be covered and additional volunteers are needed to carry on this work.

With this extra help, Tobin said, the 1952 goal may be realized.

More than 100 volunteers have been working on the campaign to date.

Despite Handicap Soldier Continues To Serve Country

SFC. EDWARD T. GATES

Despite an injury which nearly cost his life, Sergeant First Class Edward T. Gates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gates of Accord, is still making rapid strides in the service of his country.

Sgt. Gates, who enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps in 1946 at the age of 17, had the misfortune to lose his right arm in an accident near an airplane propeller. Due to the mishap, it was impossible for him to continue in the marine corps and it wasn't until 1948 that he was allowed to enlist for service in the army.

After much delay, however, he did enlist on June 15, 1948 for six years and after special training at Fort Belvoir, Va., he was sent overseas as a surveyor in the Philippine Islands. He spent 39 months in the Philippines and came back to this country February, 1952.

Sgt. Gates received a letter of commendation from his commanding officer in the Philippines for service rendered above and beyond the call of duty.

After a 30-day leave at his home in Accord, he left for Camp Chaffee, Ark., and was transferred from the 29th Engineers to the 5th Armored Division.

The young veteran, who still likes the service, will celebrate his 23rd birthday July 21 of this year.

"Here's an extremely interesting hand which came up in a duplicate at Henderson's Bridge Studio the other night," writes John D. McGervey, of Pittsburgh.

"South, my partner, was Milton (Mickey) Steiner. After he redoubled, East turned to him and said, 'Kid, if you make this one I'll buy you a suit of clothes.'

"After he got these clues my partner proceeded to play East for all the outstanding trumps and made five. One person commented that he should get a hat for the extra trick.

"Of course, East's jaw dropped a foot when the opening club lead was ruffed, Mickey then led hearts and overruffed East on the third round.

"He put East in with the ace and another diamond, and ruffed the diamond return in dummy, after which he continued his plan of pushing hearts through. East's only other trick was an overruff of the dummy on a diamond lead.

"Of course, six hearts is the best spot for North-South. The play there is fairly interesting too. If East opens a spade or a club, West makes one trump trick, period.

"If East gets fancy and leads a diamond, he will soon regret it when North runs his trumps and put him in a three-suit squeeze for seven.

"This discussion is purely hypothetical, since nobody was permitted to play in that contract; all the other East-West pairs made sacrifice bids in clubs.

"Thus East's double not only located the cards for declarer, but it possibly talked his partner out of a good sacrifice. You might draw a moral from this about the wisdom of doubling opponents who have reached a contract on their own steam.

"Incidentally, Mickey Steiner, playing with Myron Swartz, beat out Paul Schwartz and me for the right to represent the University of Pittsburgh at the finals of the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament. This hand might give you an idea how they did it."

pale personalities, to create an impression of consequence. But they know among themselves that they have been timid, many even venal in political matters. They have lacked the courage to speak out for the people in a hundred subtle and successful attacks on their liberties since Roosevelt came to power. The press fired and fell back when the CIO seized power by violence. It is terrified by discussions of religion and race. It never was correct to speak of journalism anywhere as the voice of the people. The people are not intelligent in the mass. The real editor speaks for himself. but very few of them today have the intellectual independence to think against the stream of social and political coercion. How many have had the strength to maintain that democracy is not a proclaimed ideal of the United States and to uphold the republic? How many editors have laid down an office rule to stop the prejudicial and dishonest cliches which insinuate that labor and the predatory union racket are identical? Most of them refer to corrupt union bosses as labor leaders. How many editors have resisted the degrading superstition that Franklin D. Roosevelt was honest with a heart for the common man; that his wife is a woman of superlative moral character? Proof to the contrary was known to them even while they were propagating these myths.

Now we find many of them plumping for Eisenhower as individuals and turning the crank for him in their editorial nature to the total neglect of their bounden editorial duty to choke statements of position from him and to canvass his terrible errors as a military commander.

Truman, an earthly fellow, knew what manner of men he was talking to when he looked the editors in the eye. He knew they represented the opinions and desires of corporate properties. He knew few of them would have the gumption to fight for any moral principle and that papers which bellow at the extinct Ku Klux Klan tiptoe past a much more dangerous conspiracy today.

There is no formulated voice of the people. The voice of the people is a babble of editorials, snatches of ulterior prattle from pitchmen preaching the message of cathartics and hair-do and faint echoes of this or that commandment confused with the Gettysburg address.

As property, of course, the press is no more rightly to be seized than the steel works, but that is another question.

Re-assessment Program

May 22, 1952

Editor, The Freeman:

We would appreciate your printing the following:

The town board of the town of Esopus, working in close cooperation with the Town of Esopus Taxpayers' Association, Inc., has instigated a program of re-assessment that is just about completed by the local assessors.

The aim of the new program is to ease the tax burden of the individual taxpayers of that township, whose assessments are entirely out of line with the other neighboring townships.

The re-assessment is being handled with little or no cost to the taxpayers, through the cooperation of many of the members of the Taxpayers' Association, who have voluntarily aided the assessors in the program.

Edward Eckert, the present supervisor, is determined to correct the inequities that existed and reduce the taxes of the individual taxpayer. In the last election campaign he was endorsed by the Taxpayers' Association as its candidate and he is making every effort to fulfill his campaign promises.

The Taxpayers' Association in the township has been steadily increasing its membership and has been cooperating with the town board closely so that a spirit of harmony now exists in comparison with the unrest of the residents of that township last year.

A meeting of the taxpayers' group is to be held on July 17 at the town hall in Port Ewen in order that a progress report be given to the members. Mr. Eckert and other members of the town board will speak at that time.

Thank you for your past cooperation.

Yours truly
JOHN GRADY
President

Got Laughs, No Panties

Geneva, N. Y., May 26 (AP)—About 300 Hobart College students tried to stage a panty raid on the adjoining William Smith College campus early today, but the presence of police dimmed their enthusiasm. All they got from the William Smith girls was laughs—and no lingerie. Police Chief Joseph McDonough said some of the boys swarmed up fire escapes at Comstock Hall, a girls' dorm, and broke two windows. When police appeared, no attempt was made to enter the dorm, McDonough said. The two colleges have adjoining campuses and a joint administration.

Kingston High School News

Assemblies Planned

Activities of Kingston High School have fallen off sharply since May Day. With exams getting closer, clubs are winding up their projects and closing for the year.

For the first time in months extra curricular activities have become a minor interest to more than 2,000 students who in another two weeks will be taking final examinations. However, plans at Kingston High include:

Early in June the school will close its series of assemblies with two special programs, the Letter Assembly and the Awards Assembly, on June 6 and 10, respectively.

In the Letter Assembly, members of the various sports teams will be recognized, and awarded a large "K," for their work on the teams.

The Awards Assembly is to honor those winning cash and scholarships. Some of the prizes are—for the highest average in French, Latin and in German, also for the highest average obtained in five or more years of languages.

Future Homemakers

Future Homemakers of America plan to send delegates to both the annual state meeting at Morrisville Technical School, June 6, 7, 8 and to the Future Homemakers camp, Oswegatchic, Croton, July 6-19.

At its final meeting last week the club elected officers for next year. Those chosen were Kathleen Davis, president; Betty Ellsworth, vice-president; Arlita Barringer, secretary; Sara Folwell, treasurer.

During the year the club has made cloth scrap books for the children's wards of the two local hospitals and woolen slippers for the veteran's hospital.

Mansfields Entertain

On Friday, May 23, the shooting Mansfields, a family consisting of father, mother, and daughter performed before both assemblies of KHS.

With their skill in the use of guns they were widely acclaimed as the best performers who have visited KHS this year. They have visited over 400 high schools in the east and mid-western sections of the country this year.

Besides his great skill at shooting, Mr. Mansfield possesses a great sense of humor which the students enjoyed as much as their trick shots.

Such difficult shots as shooting moving targets while looking in a mirror, shooting between their legs and shooting while sitting down and looking through a mirror were performed with such ease that the students were lett amazed.

Drama Class Plays

As the oral part of their final examination, the drama class students will present five one-act plays beginning June 5.

The presentation with the largest cast is Trifles. Pat Zimmerman, Frank Larkin, Irene Mohr, Ernie Myer and Norman Foster take part in this murder mystery. Beverly Nelson, Pat Dixon and Myra Epstein will present The Bad Penny. Joan Simmons, along with Howard Houghtaling and Guy Seligman, make up the cast of The Minuet. For Distinguished Service will be put on by Polly LeFever, Martha Williams and Joyce Newcomb while Rena Di Meo and Martha Innis will present Square Pegs.

Band, Orchestra Competition

Kingston High School orchestra and band are represented at the annual state sectional music festival held at Yonkers this weekend. Students making the trip were to be accompanied by Marlin Morette, band director and Harry Borchin, director of the orchestra.

Thirty-four members of the band will compete as soloists at the festival. These will include a brass sextet, composed of Robert Luedtke, Tom Dugan, Ted Angell, Barbara Hearsy, Joyce Newcomb and Carl Constant, and a mixed clarinet quartet with Robert Coutant, Bob Tellier, Lee Harrington and Bell Campbell.

Twirling demonstrations will be given by Joan Wilson, Mary Meyers, Sylvia Smith, Shirley Albright, Dolores Costello, Pat Carr and Jane Howard.

Two duets will be given by Kingston participants. These include a trumpet duet by James Sylvestri and Phil Mandel and a drum duet by Bob Pomeroy and George Duffner.

Thirteen KHS students are scheduled to present solos during the festival. They include saxophones, John Lalima, Ole Christensen, Louis Perry, Richard Lamoreaux, Robert Goldstein and John Roberti; clarinets, Belle Campbell, Robert Coutant, Robert Tellier and Ole Christensen; trumpet, Robert Weisman, drums, Martin Kelly and Robert Pomerly, bass, De Costa Dawson, and piano Bert Bishop.

Others on Trip

Besides the soloists those making the trip to Yonkers Friday, where the school orchestra under Mr. Berchin also took part, were Maxine Adner, Peter Angell, Mary Bouchard, Edmund Bower, Margie Boyce, Arthur Brant, Etta Brant, and Clyde Brodhead. $15,584 Reported In YMCA Drive

A total of $15,584 has been collected on the YMCA drive to date, James E. Tobin, general chairman, reported today. Returns from some workers are still incomplete and the work is being continued until finished, Tobin added.

The report also indicated that Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith still stand as top collectors with $564.

The campaign office is still open every day from 9 a. m. until 10 p. m. for workers to clear on names and reports. If the office cannot be reached by calling 1100, workers may call 4311. About 400 prospect cards are still to be covered and additional volunteers are needed to carry on this work.

With this extra help, Tobin said, the 1952 goal may be realized.

More than 100 volunteers have been working on the campaign to date.

"Bobby! Bobbeeee! Where are you?" called the baby-sitter. "I've been calling you for the last twenty minutes."

Receiving no answer, she began to search—through the living room, the bedroom, the attic, the back porch.

"Bobby!" she called, as she went to the front porch. And there was real anger in her voice. "Bobby! Are you out there?"

"Well, no," came Bobby's voice. "Have you tried the cellar yet?"

How To Be A Railroad President

Sixty-five of the 77 presidents of leading American railroads have reached their present positions after advancing step by step up the ladder of success. According to a survey made last March, the 65 began their railway careers in minor capacities and only 12 presidents entered railway service in important posts. Thirty-nine presidents are college graduates, 13 had some college training, 18 attended high school and 16 attained their presidential rank without the benefit of even a high school education.

Firearms Take Heavy Toll

Accidental discharge of firearms results in more than 2,200 deaths every year. This represents 70 per cent of all firearm fatalities. Hunters and the fellow who is sure "it isn't loaded" are responsible for the greatest number of accidents with guns.

As You Motor Along

By FRANK TRIPP

There wouldn't e much point in taking a census of the places one may stop over nigt as he motors through the country. Not unless it could be worke out on a continuing basis, sort of like the perpetual inventories hat stores keep; those that tell every night just how many hamme handles are in stock.

On some highway routes a shortage of cabin and motel sites is threatened, s rapidly and thickly are they pringing up.

It all started wen a few thrifty housewives thugt of a new use or their seldom ccupied guest ooms — and lung out a shingle. The pioneers didn't have too easy going.

Their first guests were mostly thrifty traveling salesmen whose jobs demanded that they pay thr own expenses out of their comissions. They saw a chance to cut their costs and became the hrifty ladies' earliest customers. Thrift met thrift and a new indutry was born.

A sizable industry it has become, but it is not the universal bedtime bargain that it was in the beginning. Plenty of roadside stopping paces now get hotel prices, often more. These live largely on the convenience of the turn in the morning getaway.

OMITTING the vide open spaces, it is likely that any motorist would b as surprised as I was if he counted the places to lodge along a 10-mile stretch of an average though highway.

I surely missed many, yet just by glancing from side o side as I sped along and estimating their capacity, I counted ccommodations for 325 couples in motels, cabins and private homes. Within the distance there re not 325 hotel rooms; nor could there be, for the motor tourist business is too seasonal and uncertain.

DRIVING ALONE can be a lonesome task, particularly year after yea over the same route. Counting cabins, four-legged animals and red-headed girls is one way to break the monotony. I have another, which must have got from my railroading dad.

It is a timetab and fixed schedule between pints. A set time between landmarks makes it kind o' fun. It has the effect of turning an oft driven 100 miles into six to a dozen relatively short errands and makes you dead sure of your time of arrival at your destination, without forcing your speed just because the road is clear.

Traffic will not always let you keep to your schedule but seven trips out of ten there won't be a minute's variation between points, nor five minutes' variation in 100 miles.

BUT THERE'S a joker to it. You must lay out your timetable based upon traffic regulations and speed limits or you're kidding yourself and risking your neck.

A score of tests over a certain familiar 104 miles have failed to show more than 15 minutes' difference between observing the law and flirting with death. Fifteen minutes against a tombstone are too big odds to give the undertaker.

Will Rogers once said, "A fool motorist will race an express train to beat it over a crossing—then stop at the first hot dog stand."

IT WAS through keeping the kids occupied on long motor trips that I learned something about modern education. We were playing the alphabet game; building the alphabet from letters found on road signs.

A child of sufficient age to read and write and do a fair job of multiplication lost the game because she didn't know her ABC's. Unless she got off to a flying start and wasn't interrupted she was all bawled up on the rotation of the letters of the alphabet.

Which set me off on my monologue. The kids I grew up with had learned the alphabet off a bread and milk plate or a set of blocks before they started in school—and they'd learned to wash the dishes and bring in the wood too.

Oh well, what's the use?

Jacoby on Canasta

IMPROVISE IN CHILEAN CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

I've received a number of questions about Chilean Canasta, or four-pack Canasta. Some people have called it Cuban Canasta, and others have given it all sorts of fancy names.

All of these requests boil down to the same thing. My correspondents want to know the rules of the Canasta game that is played with four packs of cards.

I must begin by saying that there are no official rules for this game. My friends in South America have given me nine or 10 different sets of rules, and I am assured that if I wrote to a thousand people I'd probably get close to a thousand different versions.

Nevertheless there is a basic game on which most of them seem to agree. Canasta enthusiasts in this country will have no trouble working out the main principles of the game, and then they can proceed to improvise their own minor rules in any way that pleases them.

To begin with, you need four ordinary decks of cards with four jokers—a total of 212 cards. This is quite a handful to shuffle, but if your hands aren't big enough you can get some of the other players to shuffle portions of the deck; or you can use one of the shuffling devices that every gadget-loving card player seems to have around.

Each player is dealt 11 cards, as in the normal game. Most other basic rules are the same as in ordinary Canasta.

An important difference is that you are allowed to meld three or more wild cards as a meld all by themselves (without natural cards). If such a meld contains seven (or more) wild cards without any natural cards, it is a canasta of wild cards, worth 2000 points.

As in Samba, a sequence may be melded. A sequence (all cards of the same suit, in ranking order) of seven cards is called a sequence canasta, and is worth 2000 points. You may add cards to a sequence canasta; and if you finally get it up to 11 cards in length (ace down to the four), the bonus is 3000 instead of only 2000 points.

The ordinary mixed canasta is worth the normal 300 points; and the ordinary natural canasta is worth the normal 500 points. Natural canastas are much easier to make since there are 16 of a kind instead of the usual eight of a kind.

You need two canastas to meld out. Game is 10,000 points.

There are differences of opinion about when red threes count plus, about when your melds count in your favor, and so on. I'll discuss some of those points in my next column. If you want to try the game, be sure to save this column as a reminder of the rules.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

BAHREIN ISLAND, about 10 miles wide and 27 miles long, is the largest of a group of low-lying islands in the Persian Gulf known as the Bahreins. It is located at the very hub of the giant wheel that is the oil-rich Middle East. Its history goes back to Sinbad the Sailor and Marco Polo the traveler, both of whom paid visits to the then-quiet little island. Before oil was discovered under Bahrein in 1932, the island's chief industry was pearl fishing. In six years, American capital and engineers built tiny Bahrein into the world's fourteenth biggest producer of oil. (In 1950, Bahrein produced 12,000,000 barrels of oil.) Besides output of its own wells, Bahrein refines and ships oil that comes by pipeline from nearby Saudi Arabia. Regarded as an independent state under the 170-year-old rule of the Sheikhs Al Khalifah, the Bahrein Islands have been under British protection since 1875. Iran has long claimed ownership of Bahrein, a claim which the British have consistently refused to honor—thus adding to the bitter oil dispute between those two nations.

280 Kingstonians Commute To Poughkeepsie IBM Plant

Of the 5,659 employes on the payroll of IBM Plant No. 2, Poughkeepsie, 280 are from Kingston, it was announced today.

It was pointed out that Dutchess county had the greatest proportion of plant workers but that Ulster, Orange and Putnam counties were well represented, as were Westchester and Columbia counties, even farther away. Less than 50 per cent of its employes come from Poughkeepsie, it was stated.

Four hundred and twenty-two employes, for example, list Wappingers Falls as their residence. Other neighboring towns and villages having their citizens working in the plant include Hyde Park, 212 employes; Pleasant Valley, 122; Rhinebeck, 104; Red Hook, 45; Millbrook, 43; Beacon, 206.

Across the Hudon river, Highland appears with 172 employes; Newburgh, 180; New Paltz, 112. It is interesting to note that Peekskill in Westchester further to the south, appears with three employes.

Believed to set some sort of a record in distance is Rolf W. Carlson, a plant employe, who resides in Bayside, L. I. He operates a mobile radio telephone station which has been set up in his car and in traveling to and from his position, passes the time pleasantly conversing with other amateur radio operators, discussing the day's news, restaurants, places visited and whatever passes through their minds.

Jacoby on Canasta

IMPROVISE IN CHILEAN CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

I've received a number of questions about Chilean Canasta, or four-pack Canasta. Some people have called it Cuban Canasta, and others have given it all sorts of fancy names.

All of these guests boil down to the same thing. My correspondents want to know the rules of the Canasta game that is played with four packs of cards.

I must begin by saying that there are no official rules for this game. My friends in South America have given me nine or 10 different sets of rules, and I am assured that if I wrote to a thousand people I'd probably get close to a thousand different versions.

Nevertheless there is a basic game on which most of them seem to agree. Canasta enthusiasts in this country will have no trouble working out the main principles of the game, and then they can proceed to improvise their own minor rules in any way that pleases them.

To begin with, you need four ordinary decks of cards with four jokers—a total of 212 cards. This is quite a handful to shuffle, but if your hands aren't big enough you can get some of the other players to shuffle portions of the deck; or you can use one of the shuffling devices that every gadget-loving card player seems to have around.

Each player is dealt 11 cards, as in the normal game. Most other basic rules are the same as in ordinary Canasta.

An important difference is that you are allowed to meld three or more wild cards as a meld all by themselves (without natural cards). If such a meld contains seven (or more) wild cards without any natural cards, it is a canasta of wild cards, worth 2000 points.

As in Samba, a sequence may be melded. A sequence (all cards of the same suit, in ranking order) of seven cards is called a sequence canasta, and is worth 2000 points. You may add cards to a sequence canasta; and if you finally get it up to 11 cards in length (ace down to the four), the bonus is 3000 instead of only 2000 points.

The ordinary mixed canasta is worth the normal 300 points; and the ordinary natural canasta is worth the normal 500 points. Natural canastas are much easier to make since there are 16 of a kind instead of the usual eight of a kind.

You need two canastas to meld out. Game is 10,000 points.

There are differences of opinion about when red threes count plus, about when your melds count in your favor, and so on. I'll discuss some of those points in my next column. If you want to try the game, be sure to save this column as a reminder of the rules.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

HOSPITALITY TAKEN LIGHTLY

Today's first letter is from a young wife who explains: "Very unexpectedly my husband was offered a better position in another town. As he had to leave almost immediately, I could not go with him but expect to join him soon. In almost every letter I receive from him he tells me how kind everyone is to him and that he had dinner at this one's house or that one's house. My worry is whether or not I am obligated to return these invitations given my husband when I arrive. With the strain of moving, our limited budget and a young child to look after, I don't feel I could possibly do it, but I don't want these people to think me ungrateful, nor do I want to do anything that will cause embarrassment to my husband. Will you please tell me what is correct in this situation?"

It is not necessary at all to invite them to meals because they will understand your situation perfectly. Little by little you will get to know them well yourself and when you can do something, such as invite them in for a cup of tea or coffee, that is all that is expected.

Fiancee Announces Own Engagement

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just become engaged and would like to send an announcement to the newspaper, but am puzzled as to the correct way this should be done as both my parents are deceased. Will you please help me?

Answer: If you have neither grandmother nor aunt to announce it for you, it could be announced impersonally this way: "The engagement of Miss Louise Jones, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, is announced to Mr. Henry Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Brown.

On Dating a Letter

Dear Mrs. Post: When writing a personal letter, is the date correctly put at the end of the message or at the top, in the right-hand corner? I have had various opinions about this and would like to settle it.

Answer: It is usually put in the upper right-hand corner of a long letter, but it is most often put at the end of a short note.

What reply should be made when being introduced to a group of people? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," includes suggestions on introducing friends, family and groups, also the reply. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

The godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Clay Faulkner of Albany; Mrs. Armstrong and William McCain, Newburgh; and Mr. and Mrs. William Brodhead.

In attendance for the ceremony and dinner which followed were Mr. and Mrs. Lomax Powell, Mr. and Mrs. H. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Schakelford, Mr. and Mrs. Mabin Faulkner, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Faulkner, Reginald Mills, Miss Linda Bodrick, and Miss Donna McCullough, all of Albany; Mr. and Mrs. Mack Villinexi, Schenectady; Mr. and Mrs. Grady Brand, Mr. and Mrs. William McCain, Newburgh.

And, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brodhead; Mr. and Mrs. Broadhead and children, Betty, Helen, Delores and Sharon; Mrs. Mary Buriss, Mrs. Cora Brodhead, Albert Snyder, Peter Fitzgerald, Arthur Jackson, Jr., Miss Cora Armstrong, Clyde Brodhead, 2nd, Miss Teri Anne McCullough, all of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lockhart of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Charles of Boston.

Lina Schmidtkonz Presents Musicale

A most outstanding event of the season was the musicale given by Lina M. Schmidtkonz at Bethany Hall, the Old Dutch Church, on Friday evening when she presented two advanced pupils, Gita Weinrauch and Cameron Rylance in a duo piano and solo recital.

A capacity audience of 400 was in attendance. Their enthusiasm throughout the program showed appreciation, not only of the talent of the students, but of the meticulous care and comprehensive training in both technique and musical understanding, poise and assurance they had received.

The program opened with Mendelssohn's Capriccio Brillant for two pianos and closed with a duo piano arrangement of Waltz of the Flowers by Tschaikowsky. In each number there was perfect synchronization and interpretation of the music.

Cameron Rylance played a group of three Debussy compositions, the first number being Clair de lune. He played feelingly, depicting the mood of the silvery atmosphere of moonlight conveyed by the music. Next was Arabesque No. 2, which was played with a sense of active, classic buoyancy of the composition. In La Cathedrale Engloutie, there was displayed a true feeling of the legend upon which it is based. It portrays the Cathedral of YS, engulfed in the fourth or fifth century "because of the impiety of the inhabitants", but allowed to rise again and to be seen (as an example to others) at sunrise.

Gita Weinrauch gave a group of three Chopin numbers, displaying sympathetic understanding of his beautiful music. First the Prelude OP. 28, No. 15, sometimes called the "Raindrop Prelude", because the reiterated eighth not depicts the dripping raindrops; then the lovely and brilliant Fantastic Impromptu in C Sharp Minor. The group closed with Etude Op. 10, No. 15. which is written for the black keys only and is sometimes called "The Black Key Etude". She well depicted its liquid, flowing style.

The lovely pianissimo effects, which both students displayed, showed delicacy of feeling. The dynamics were excellent. The true message which the music expressed was clearly conveyed.

Richard Baker, tenor, assisting on the program, sang most enjoyably. He was very ably accompained by Eleanor L. Akley of Larchmount, N. Y. He sang a group of three songs, Ah Moon of My Delight from "In a Persian Garden"; by Lehmann; Were My Song With Wings Provided, by Hahn; When I Have Sung My Songs, by Charles.

At the close of the recital, Miss Schmidtkonz was presented with a beautiful bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Benedictine Nursing School Is Accredited

The Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing has been notified by the National Nursing Accrediting Service that it has been placed on the list of schools receiving temporary accreditation.

This service was established in January, 1949, as a result of the unified efforts of the national nursing organizations. As other professional organizations, the nursing groups too believe that accreditation is essential to the improvement of educational program.

Ultimate Purpose

Though the ultimate purpose of accreditation of schools of nursing is the improvement of nursing service, there are also concomitant values for every school of nursing. The greatest of these values, perhaps, is that through the process of becoming accredited and remaining on that list, schools of nursing are stimulated to continuous self-study and self-improvement.

Another and important value is the fact that as soon as the name of a school appears on the list now being circulated widely to colleges and secondary schools, there is greater possibility of attracting desirable applicants.

Is Based On

Temporary accreditation is based upon a questionnaire completed by the school, a one-day visit by a representative of the National Nursing Accrediting Service and information submitted by the state board of nurse examiners.

Members of the staff at the Benedictine Hospital school have expressed the belief that "better nursing education for better nursing service is a worth striving for goal."

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

HOSPITALITY TAKEN LIGHTLY

Today's first letter is from a young wife who explains: "Very unexpectedly my husband was offered a better position in another town. As he had to leave almost immediately, I could not go with him but expect to join him soon. In almost every letter I receive from him he tells me how kind everyone is to him and that he had dinner at this one's house or that one's house. My worry is whether or not I am obligated to return these invitations given my husband when I arrive. With the strain of moving, our limited budget and a young child to look after, I don't feel I could possibly do it, but I don't want these people to think me ungrateful, nor do I want to do anything that will cause embarrassment to my husband. Will you please tell me what is correct in this situation?"

It is not necessary at all to invite them to meals because they will understand your situation perfectly. Little by little you will get to know them well yourself and when you can do something, such as invite them in for a cup of tea or coffee, that is all that is expected.

Fiancee Announces Own Engagement

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just become engaged and would like to send an announcement to the newspaper, but am puzzled as to the correct way this should be done as both my parents are deceased. Will you please help me?

Answer: If you have neither grandmother nor aunt to announce it for you, it could be announced impersonally this way: "The engagement of Miss Louise Jones, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, is announced to Mr. Henry Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Brown.

On Dating a Letter

Dear Mrs. Post: When writing a personal letter, is the date correctly put at the end of the message or at the top, in the right-hand corner? I have had various opinions about this and would like to settle it.

Answer: It is usually put in the upper right-hand corner of a long letter, but it is most often put at the end of a short note.

What reply should be made when being introduced to a group of people? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," includes suggestions on introducing friends, family and groups, also the reply. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Lina Schmidtkonz Presents Musicale

A most outstanding event of the season was the musicale given by Lina M. Schmidtkonz at Bethany Hall, the Old Dutch Church, on Friday evening when she presented two advanced pupils, Gita Weinrauch and Cameron Rylance in a duo piano and solo recital.

A capacity audience of 400 was in attendance. Their enthusiasm throughout the program showed appreciation, not only of the talent of the students, but of the meticulous care and comprehensive training in both technique and musical understanding, poise and assurance they had received.

The program opened with Mendelssohn's Capriccio Brillant for two pianos and closed with a duo piano arrangement of Waltz of the Flowers by Tschaikowsky. In each number there was perfect synchronization and interpretation of the music.

Cameron Rylance played a group of three Debussy compositions, the first number being Clair de lune. He played feelingly, depicting the mood of the silvery atmosphere of moonlight conveyed by the music. Next was Arabesque No. 2, which was played with a sense of active, classic buoyancy of the composition. In La Cathedrale Engloutie, there was displayed a true feeling of the legend upon which it is based. It portrays the Cathedral of YS, engulfed in the fourth or fifth century "because of the impiety of the inhabitants", but allowed to rise again and to be seen (as an example to others) at sunrise.

Gita Weinrauch gave a group of three Chopin numbers, displaying sympathetic understanding of his beautiful music. First the Prelude OP. 28, No. 15, sometimes called the "Raindrop Prelude", because the reiterated eighth not depicts the dripping raindrops; then the lovely and brilliant Fantastic Impromptu in C Sharp Minor. The group closed with Etude Op. 10, No. 15. which is written for the black keys only and is sometimes called "The Black Key Etude". She well depicted its liquid, flowing style.

The lovely pianissimo effects, which both students displayed, showed delicacy of feeling. The dynamics were excellent. The true message which the music expressed was clearly conveyed.

Richard Baker, tenor, assisting on the program, sang most enjoyably. He was very ably accompained by Eleanor L. Akley of Larchmount, N. Y. He sang a group of three songs, Ah Moon of My Delight from "In a Persian Garden"; by Lehmann; Were My Song With Wings Provided, by Hahn; When I Have Sung My Songs, by Charles.

At the close of the recital, Miss Schmidtkonz was presented with a beautiful bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Benedictine Nursing School Is Accredited

The Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing has been notified by the National Nursing Accrediting Service that it has been placed on the list of schools receiving temporary accreditation.

This service was established in January, 1949, as a result of the unified efforts of the national nursing organizations. As other professional organizations, the nursing groups too believe that accreditation is essential to the improvement of educational program.

Ultimate Purpose

Though the ultimate purpose of accreditation of schools of nursing is the improvement of nursing service, there are also concomitant values for every school of nursing. The greatest of these values, perhaps, is that through the process of becoming accredited and remaining on that list, schools of nursing are stimulated to continuous self-study and self-improvement.

Another and important value is the fact that as soon as the name of a school appears on the list now being circulated widely to colleges and secondary schools, there is greater possibility of attracting desirable applicants.

Is Based On

Temporary accreditation is based upon a questionnaire completed by the school, a one-day visit by a representative of the National Nursing Accrediting Service and information submitted by the state board of nurse examiners.

Members of the staff at the Benedictine Hospital school have expressed the belief that "better nursing education for better nursing service is a worth striving for goal."

Open Exhibition At Local School

Woodstock, May 26 — Woodstock's youngest artists and craftsmen, pupils of the Woodstock Elementary School, have for the second successive year, presented an impressive accumulation of the year's work, in the exhibition which opened Saturday afternoon at the Art Gallery. The show is sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association, members of which were hostesses at the opening tea.

Mrs. Edna Quick, art instructor at the school, has again displayed her ingenuity in arranging and grouping the large number of paintings, drawings and craftwork.

In the rear gallery, Mrs. Sylva Hutchins, kindergarten teacher, has placed the exciting and revealing paintings and modeled pieces by her group. Mrs. Hutchins feels that the gaily colored pieces which the children have modeled, are especially important, as they are used in teaching the students the importance in following a project through to completion—first the modelling, the drying period, the painting to the final step in applying the shellac to the object.

While last year's group of third graders developed fish motifs in the fascinating crayon batique technique, this year's class has devised an exquisite group of designs with Jack's beanstalk as the source of inspiration. The stalks are adorned with a variety of images, from Chinese kites to flowers. Only one pupil put a bean on his stalk," said Mrs. Quick.

Since this will be the last year that their work will be exhibited with the Woodstock School before entering high school, special mention might be made of the paintings derived from jungle stories, by eighth graders Barbara Gosman, Herbert Waterous, Willy Mellin, Diane Mower and Roger Dordick, which are exceptionally original. Also in the eighth grade group is a moving version of the flag raising on a Pacific island by American soldiers, by Serge Angiel, and Warren Graver's well-handled house and William Harder's fine truck. Mary Lapo has a delicate handling of pastels.

The students have also designed a wide variety of mask cutouts which border the show and add to its decorative quality. There are also Christmas cards, valentines and bright raffia baskets.

The exhibition will remain on view through Tuesday, June 3, concluding with the final P.-T. A. meeting of the season at 8 p. m., at which time Rosabell Mann will speak.

Swimming and Wading Pool Nearly Ready

Woodstock, May 26 — Although no announcement of the opening date has yet been made, work on the wading and swimming pool at the recreation field is nearing completion. The framework of the surrounding fence has been put into place and the wire fencing will probably go up this week. Grading of the top-soil is underway, and as soon as it has been finished, Fred Tripicco will sow the grass which will surround the pool.

"The pool is coming along in good shape," according to Ben DeGraff, road superintendent. "The construction work is being done by William Klementis and Charles Joy has been on the job every day."

At a recent meeting of the recreation committee at the Woodstock School, Don Milora was appointed to be in charge of the recreation field, and Paul Van Wagenen, it was announced, has been hired to supervise the swimming pool.

The concrete pool, which will be painted, is divided into two sections, a small wading pool for the smaller children and a larger swimming pool for the older group.

Dedication ceremonies will take place during the summer, following the return from Europe of Anthony J. DeLisio, who presented the pool to the township.

Announce Services

Woodstock, May 26—St. Gregory's Episcopal Mission will hold regular morning worship services and Holy Communion the last Sunday of each month, at 11:45 a. m., at the home of Mrs. Margaret R. Kenyon on Glasco Turnpike. The sermon will be given at each service by the Rev. Herald C. Swezy, vicar, of West Park.

To Give Reception

Woodstock, May 26—A reception will be given by the friends of C. J. McCarthy at 5 p. m. this afternoon to welcome him as maitre d'hotel of the Town House. McCarthy officially takes over his new duties there today.

The Mature Parent

Total Control as Bad as None; Teach Child Use of Freedom

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A reader tells me I have failed to show proper respect for the Victorian age idea that children should be "seen and not heard." She writes: "In those days, children were better behaved, more polite and much happier than boys and girls today."

Better behaved, more polite maybe. But much happier? How do we know? I certainly don't. However, I do know that I have just finished reading a biography of one Victorian child who, though well behaved and polite, seemed to be about as miserable as anyone can get.

If anyone was kind to her, she developed such an intense "crush" on him that she fell sick with excitement. During adolescence, she spent much time in sessions with a secret diary, scribbling down all her terrified, furiously resentful feelings about her family.

As she grew into womanhood, she felt a power for greatness in herself, but since any exploration of it produced fainting fits in her mother and sister, she allowed herself to be seen and never heard by anyone who could possibly object to what he heard. Fear of insanity developed. She fell into "trances," had hallucinations. In her diary, she wrote, "I see nothing desirable but death."

She was Florence Nightingale, that star in the Victorian firmament, England's heroine of the Crimean war. She didn't do nearly so well for herself as we have supposed. She rallied enough confidence in herself to come through in her country's emergency and visit Queen Victoria — but when the captains and the kings went home, she lapsed back into her old chronic, guilt-ridden invalidism.

An awful lot of Victorian ladies spent their lives in negligees, it seems to me.

Let's not make a habit of romanticizing the past, the "good old days" when we didn't have to find answers for Johnny—because he didn't dare ask any. It's probably reaction to our own recent experience with the "never stop them" school of discipline.

We're quite right to have lost patience with zealots who told us to give Johnny freedom before he'd earned it. But just because we were thrown off balance by one foolish idea, we don't want to go swinging off on the pendulum of another one.

Total control is as dangerous as none at all, and parents who dominate or are dominated by children create equal havoc. The job is to teach Johnny the responsible use of freedom—and we just can't afford to be distracted from it again by promoters of tyranny for him or for us.

Cecil Woodham-Smith's biography of Florence Nightingale makes for pretty interesting thought. It scores one up for us who want children's anger out in the open, not hidden away, distilling poison drop by drop in lonely monologues with hidden diaries.

When I finished reading it, I felt pretty proud of the moral courage of this generation, which seeks to know when, why and how anger is aroused in a child so that we can obey the ancient counsel, "Fathers, provoke not your children to wrath."

The suggestion that we are entitled to children's honor without earning it accounts for more family conflict and sorrow than any we suffer from.

We have set our hearts, we modern mature parents, to the job of deserving the honor of our children. It is the grandest job any generation of fathers and mothers ever undertook.

May Is Wettest Month on Record

May, which ends this week, has been one of the wettest months on record in this area to date.

It has contributed 4.39 inches to a total of 21.35 inches since Jan. 1 in the city, and the record generally for the county is about the same.

The average May rainfall in the city is 3.74 inches, and the average from Jan. 1 to June 1 is 15.63 inches. The total average for the year is 39.66 inches, and the rainfall to date from Jan. 1 is already more than half that average.

New York city water department records showed a total of 2.04 inches from Saturday about midnight to 8 a. m., today, in the Esopus creek watershed area, while that in the Schoharie area was only .57 of an inch over the same period.

The only storm incident reported to the police was at 9:10 a. m. Sunday, when a tree was reported down on Delaware avenue below Cordts Hose.

The rainfall in the city from Saturday midnight until 9 a. m. today was 1.57 inches.

A report from New York said a rainfall of 1.42 inches marked the city's wettest May 25 and the downpour flooded streets and basements. The weather bureau predicted cloudiness and fog this morning, but said the skies would clear this afternoon. The previous record rainfall in New York for May 25 was .89 inches in 1901.

Thunder showers were reported in parts of the upper Atlantic seaboard.

London, May 26 (AP)—Queen Mary was 85 years old today. The first to deliever their congratulations in person were her royal great-grandchildren, Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

Accused of Bigamy

Mesa, Ariz., May 26 (AP)—George Merlin Dutson, excommunicated Mormon accused of having four wives, was freed on $1,500 bail yesterday pending a preliminary hearing on charges of bigamy and illegal cohabitation. No date for his appearance in court has been set. The husky, 47-year-old rancher was arrested Saturday. He had been sought since Dec. 31, 1951. It was on that date that six women, all giving Dutson as their last name, were charged with "open and notorious cohabitation" with Dutson. Charges against two of the six were later dropped, and the case against the other four was indefinitely postponed pending Dutson's apprehension.

ALL'S WELL

An explanation and an apology is owing to many thousands of ladies who missed the customary calls of their Krug's salesmen during the last ten days.

A work-stoppage was called on Thursday, May 15th, because no agreement had been reached then, between the representatives of the salesmen's union and ourselves with respect to the terms of a new contract. The stoppage was not of our choosing.

Finally, after much sweating and the burning of midnight oil, we arrived at a contract satisfactory to the salesmen.

We regret exceedingly, the inconvenience caused by this lapse in our customary, prompt service. We hope for your understanding and we shall be grateful if you will now resume your dealings with your dependable Krug's salesman.

Open Exhibition At Local School

Woodstock, May 26 — Woodstock's youngest artists and craftsmen, pupils of the Woodstock Elementary School, have for the second successive year, presented an impressive accumulation of the year's work, in the exhibition which opened Saturday afternoon at the Art Gallery. The show is sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association, members of which were hostesses at the opening tea.

Mrs. Edna Quick, art instructor at the school, has again displayed her ingenuity in arranging and grouping the large number of paintings, drawings and craftwork.

In the rear gallery, Mrs. Sylva Hutchins, kindergarten teacher, has placed the exciting and revealing paintings and modeled pieces by her group. Mrs. Hutchins feels that the gaily colored pieces which the children have modeled, are especially important, as they are used in teaching the students the importance in following a project through to completion—first the modelling, the drying period, the painting to the final step in applying the shellac to the object.

While last year's group of third graders developed fish motifs in the fascinating crayon batique technique, this year's class has devised an exquisite group of designs with Jack's beanstalk as the source of inspiration. The stalks are adorned with a variety of images, from Chinese kites to flowers. Only one pupil put a bean on his stalk," said Mrs. Quick.

Since this will be the last year that their work will be exhibited with the Woodstock School before entering high school, special mention might be made of the paintings derived from jungle stories, by eighth graders Barbara Gosman, Herbert Waterous, Willy Mellin, Diane Mower and Roger Dordick, which are exceptionally original. Also in the eighth grade group is a moving version of the flag raising on a Pacific island by American soldiers, by Serge Angiel, and Warren Graver's well-handled house and William Harder's fine truck. Mary Lapo has a delicate handling of pastels.

The students have also designed a wide variety of mask cutouts which border the show and add to its decorative quality. There are also Christmas cards, valentines and bright raffia baskets.

The exhibition will remain on view through Tuesday, June 3, concluding with the final P.-T. A. meeting of the season at 8 p. m., at which time Rosabell Mann will speak.

Swimming and Wading Pool Nearly Ready

Woodstock, May 26 — Although no announcement of the opening date has yet been made, work on the wading and swimming pool at the recreation field is nearing completion. The framework of the surrounding fence has been put into place and the wire fencing will probably go up this week. Grading of the top-soil is underway, and as soon as it has been finished, Fred Tripicco will sow the grass which will surround the pool.

"The pool is coming along in good shape," according to Ben DeGraff, road superintendent. "The construction work is being done by William Klementis and Charles Joy has been on the job every day."

At a recent meeting of the recreation committee at the Woodstock School, Don Milora was appointed to be in charge of the recreation field, and Paul Van Wagenen, it was announced, has been hired to supervise the swimming pool.

The concrete pool, which will be painted, is divided into two sections, a small wading pool for the smaller children and a larger swimming pool for the older group.

Dedication ceremonies will take place during the summer, following the return from Europe of Anthony J. DeLisio, who presented the pool to the township.

Announce Services

Woodstock, May 26—St. Gregory's Episcopal Mission will hold regular morning worship services and Holy Communion the last Sunday of each month, at 11:45 a. m., at the home of Mrs. Margaret R. Kenyon on Glasco Turnpike. The sermon will be given at each service by the Rev. Herald C. Swezy, vicar, of West Park.

To Give Reception

Woodstock, May 26—A reception will be given by the friends of C. J. McCarthy at 5 p. m. this afternoon to welcome him as maitre d'hotel of the Town House. McCarthy officially takes over his new duties there today.

The Mature Parent

Total Control as Bad as None; Teach Child Use of Freedom

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A reader tells me I have failed to show proper respect for the Victorian age idea that children should be "seen and not heard." She writes: "In those days, children were better behaved, more polite and much happier than boys and girls today."

Better behaved, more polite maybe. But much happier? How do we know? I certainly don't. However, I do know that I have just finished reading a biography of one Victorian child who, though well behaved and polite, seemed to be about as miserable as anyone can get.

If anyone was kind to her, she developed such an intense "crush" on him that she fell sick with excitement. During adolescence, she spent much time in sessions with a secret diary, scribbling down all her terrified, furiously resentful feelings about her family.

As she grew into womanhood, she felt a power for greatness in herself, but since any exploration of it produced fainting fits in her mother and sister, she allowed herself to be seen and never heard by anyone who could possibly object to what he heard. Fear of insanity developed. She fell into "trances," had hallucinations. In her diary, she wrote, "I see nothing desirable but death."

She was Florence Nightingale, that star in the Victorian firmament, England's heroine of the Crimean war. She didn't do nearly so well for herself as we have supposed. She rallied enough confidence in herself to come through in her country's emergency and visit Queen Victoria — but when the captains and the kings went home, she lapsed back into her old chronic, guilt-ridden invalidism.

An awful lot of Victorian ladies spent their lives in negligees, it seems to me.

Let's not make a habit of romanticizing the past, the "good old days" when we didn't have to find answers for Johnny—because he didn't dare ask any. It's probably reaction to our own recent experience with the "never stop them" school of discipline.

We're quite right to have lost patience with zealots who told us to give Johnny freedom before he'd earned it. But just because we were thrown off balance by one foolish idea, we don't want to go swinging off on the pendulum of another one.

Fromer Amocos Crowned 1952 State Champions in Gross Division

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Hail, Fromer Amocos, 1952 New York State five-man handicap champions!

Kingston's first state bowling title in the 27-year history of the championships became a reality at precisely 12:55 a. m. today, when the last man of the last team in a near-record entry of 1596 teams tossed his last ball on alley No. 11 at the Bowlodrome.

Led by Captain Tommy Amato, Fromer's had posted a tremendous 3249 on Thursday, April 3, and the score held up against rugged opposition all the way.

It got a few scares—as late as Saturday night—when the May's Grill of Lackawanna caught on fire for two games—but in the end it was riding serenely on top for the tournament's major haul of $1500 in prize money.

The highest scoring tournament in state bowling history was scheduled to wind up with a 1:15 p. m. singles and doubles squad today at the Ruzzo Bowlatorium.

Besides Amato, the team personnel included Tom Carlino, Jackie Ferraro, Dick Howard and Joe Schrowang.

New Records in Two Divisions

New all-time records were established in the five-man net division and the gross singles.

Wagner-Adler, a Metropolitan Major League powerhouse of New York, fired a brilliant 3219 on alleys 5 and 6 on April 26 for the highest three-game count in state history.

An obscure 159-average bowler out of Rome, Eugene Hoffmeister, re-wrote the record book in the gross singles with a phenomenal 823. He also topped the net division with 733, assuming, of course, the scores held up today. The chances that they wouldn't were extremely remote.

As the tournament went into its final hours, with the five-man championships already in the record books, here were the leaders in each division:

Five-Man Gross—Fromer Amocos, Kingston, 3249.

Five-Man Net—Wagner - Adler, New York, 3219.

Gross Doubles—Dean Place and Warren McPherson, Elmira, 1407.

Net Doubles—Bill Hansly-John Bomba, New York, 1346.

Gross Singles—Eugene Hoffmeister, Rome, 823.

Net Singles—Eugene Hoffmeister, Rome, 733.

Gross All-Events—Ted Richardson, Hudson, 2066.

Net All-Events—Vito Caloia, Syracuse, 1961.

Kingston Teams Fared Well

Kingston keglers did not distinguish themselves in the singles and doubles action, but they made a fine haul in the team events.

Alpine finished in second place behind Fromer's with 3243 in the net division for a $1,200 prize, while Hymes Shoes were in ninth position with 3193. All three teams were among the first five in the net division, but, according to the state rules they will draw their money from the gross division.

The rules stipulate a team or individual that crashes both the gross and net prize fund is entitled to the highest share—normally in the gross—but the net winners are recognized as state championships. Both net and gross scores are rewarded with medals.

Fromer keglers who had sweated through several weeks of tournament play would have been scared stiff had they happened to be in the alleys Saturday night.

The May's Grill keglers of Lackawanna, a 90-pin handicap per game team, opened with a powerful 1118 gross score and followed with 1086. Needing only 1046 gross to go into first place, the upstaters stumbled in the closing frames and settled for 3200 on the nose, good for 8th position.

The May's Grill anchor, Elmer Luvender, faded to 158 in the stretch after opening blasts of 233 and 224 and that hurt his team's chances materially.

Fromer's 3249 withstood heavy assauts in the closing weekend—which was one of the heaviest scoring since the tournament opened on Wednesday, April 20.

There were four teams in the "3100" bracket; 10 of "3000" or better and 24 in the 2900-plus money brackets.

The 55-day tenpin marathon attracted the fourth highest entry on record and paid out nearly $80,000 in prize money.

HERE THEY ARE! THE NEW STATE GROSS CHAMPIONS!

Fromer Amocos, the team of destiny, wrote the first Kingston name into the state gross five-man team record book with a rousing 3249 score that won first place prize of $1500.00. They posted an actual 3105, second only to the Wagner-Adler 3219 count. Personnel of the squad, sponsored by C. A. "Bud" Fromer, of trotting fame, which won the first state crown in local history, included, left to right: Joe Schrowang, who holds the all-time local high series of 771; Dick Howard, Jackie Ferraro, Tom Amato, captain; and Tom Carlino. Middletown High Scores Five Firsts to Win DUSO Track Title

Koenig Captures High Jump for Kingston High

Maroons Also Grab 440-Yard Relay

Middletown High School's brilliant thinclads ran away from the field to capture the DUSO League track crown, Saturday at municipal stadium.

Coach John Nania's undefeated forces piled up 40½ points for a 15-point margin over runnerup Newburgh Free Academy in a meet featured by two new league records.

The Point Totals

Middletown High, 40½
Newburgh Academy, 25½
Port Jervis High, 23
Monticello High, 20½
Kingston High, 19
Poughkeepsie High, 13½
Liberty High, 1

Maroon Wins Two

Kingston High which had dominated the meet for several years got exactly what was expected—a first in the high jump and the 440-yard relay. Only Koenig was an out and out favorite in his specialty but Coach Kias' relay team overshadowed the field in a 46.5 performance.

Ronald "Muzzy" Wright, Poughkeepsie High's ponderous all-round schoolboy star, set a new record in the javelin with a toss of 170 feet 3¾ inches. The former record was set by Charles Barber of Port Jervis at 169 feet 6½ inches in 1948.

Roger Gilbert, a pint-sized package of dynamite from Port Jervis, shattered the 440-yard record with a 51.9 clocking. The old mark of 52.4 was established by Reggie Lockwood of Newburgh Free Academy in 1939. Gilbert opened with a burst of speed and maintained a blistering pace throughout. When the railbirds expected him to crack on the turn at the head of the stretch, he fooled them by uncorking a tremendous kick in the last 25 yards to outdistance Kingston's Harry Craft who ran a nice race.

Fast in Sprints

As was expected the Middies dominated the sprints, with Larry Scarzafava reeling off the century in 10.4 and Nino Marcello winning the 220 in 23.5 seconds.

The Schuerholtz brothers — Frank and Pete—duplicated their one-two finish of the Orange county meet—with Frank breaking the tape first in the 880 in the excellent time of 2:03.2. The DUSO record was set by Kingston's immortal Ed McCardle in 2:02.2 in 1947.

The Middies picked up two firsts in the field events. Ray Sedelmeyer upset the favored Jim Rhoades of Port Jervis with a toss of 128 feet 11¼ inches in the discus and Whitby leaped 19 feet 6 inches for first in the running broad jump.

Koenig Tops Field

Koenig was off by himself in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 10¾ inches, not too far off his all-time KHS record of 5 feet 11½ inches. Gardner of Poughkeepsie and L'Estrange of Newburgh were tied for second place at 5 feet 6 inches. Koenig just missed six feet in competition against himself after the event was over.

Webster Henderson got the Maroon relay squad off to a flyifng start. Charlie Johnson, A. Miller and Orv Giles carried on through a blazing finish. Newburgh came on fast in the last exchange of batons and apparently finished second. However, the Goldbacks were disqualified for having a runner out of his lane and second place went to Monticello.

Bobby Spreer, bigger of the Spreer brothers, propelled himself to 10 feet 6 inches in the pole vault. He barely missed at 11 feet after the event was terminated.

1951 Champions Hit 2997 Gross

Cortland VFW, 1951 state champions in the net division, failed to repeat in its bid for the state crown Saturday night. The upstaters shot a respectable 2862 net and 2997, good for a slice of the prize money, but a far cry from their 1951 performance at Elmira when they grabbed the net crown with 2980. They showed two flashy performers in John Partigianoni, a 203-average leadoff, who shot 598 and Ed Morrison, 200-average anchor, who led the squad with 630.

Sweeney Defaults In British Amateur

Prestwick, Scotland, May 26 (AP)—First round results of American players in the British Amateur golf tournament:

F. F. Salaman, New York, defeated Capt. James Brady, U. S. Army, 4 and 3.

Harvie Ward, Tarboro, N. C., defeated R. S. Nicol, England, 4 and 3.

Alex Kyle, England, won over Robert Sweeney, New York, default.

Forty Teams Crash Week-end Prize List

Forty teams crashed the prize list in the team division of the state tournament in weekend shooting that started Friday night, but the important thing, from a Kingston standpoint, was that only one team came close to Fromer Amoco's 3249.

The hard hitting May's Grill of Lackawanna, hard by Buffalo, blasted an 1118 and 1086 in their first two sets and seemed to be headed for a major upset.

But like at least a dozen other squads since April 3, they tightened up in the stretch and settled for runner-up scores. This time it was 3200 on the nose.

The May's socked 2930 net, one of the best scores in the tournament, and the last three men posted 600, 644 and 615 respectively.

Oswald Meats of Buffalo toppled 3140 sticks for second honors in the final week of play. They netted 2702 and had 438-pins handicap.

Teams in the "3100" gross division included Draco's Restaurant, Pulaski, with 3118; Nu-Tone Radio, Rochester, 3115; and Oh Johnnie's, Suffern, 3108.

Ten others rolled into the "3000" groove and a total of 40 were in the prize money with 2935 or better.

1952 STATE SINGLES CHAMPION

Eugene "Wink" Hoffmeister, of Rome, is the new state singles champion in both the net and gross division, unless he was disturbed on the 1:15 p. m. squad today. Hoffmeister startled the state bowling world with a phenomenal 823 gross and 733, not bad for a guy who averages only 159 in two Rome leagues. He is shown reading the teletype report of his spectacular accomplishment in the teletype room of his hometown newspaper, the Rome Daily Sentinel. (Rome Sentinel Photo)

Driver to Challenge Pronto Don July 4

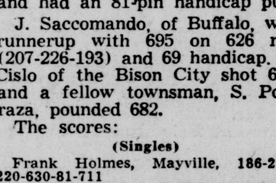

Goshen—If history repeats at Historic Track, driver Benny Schue of the Hayes Fair Acres Stable, Du Quoin, Ill., will have quite a time on Friday, July 4.

It was a year ago at Historic that driver Schue blazed home to win three of the four Fourth of July races.

There were a lot of racing fans riding with Benny that day, for he wore the patriotic red, white and blue colors.

Fromer Amocos Crowned 1952 State Champions in Gross Division

Hail, Fromer Amocos, 1952 New York State five-man handicap champions!

Kingston's first state bowling title in the 27-year history of the championships became a reality at precisely 12:55 a. m. today, when the last man of the last team in a near-record entry of 1596 teams tossed his last ball on alley No. 11 at the Bowlodrome.

Led by Captain Tommy Amato, Fromer's had posted a tremendous 3249 on Thursday, April 3, and the score held up against rugged opposition all the way.

It got a few scares—as late as Saturday night—when the May's Grill of Lackawanna caught on fire for two games—but in the end it was riding serenely on top for the tournament's major haul of $1500 in prize money.

The highest scoring tournament in state bowling history was scheduled to wind up with a 1:15 p. m. singles and doubles squad today at the Ruzzo Bowlatorium.

Besides Amato, the team personnel included Tom Carlino, Jackie Ferraro, Dick Howard and Joe Schrowang.

New Records in Two Divisions

New all-time records were established in the five-man net division and the gross singles.

Wagner-Adler, a Metropolitan Major League powerhouse of New York, fired a brilliant 3219 on alleys 5 and 6 on April 26 for the highest three-game count in state history.

An obscure 159-average bowler out of Rome, Eugene Hoffmeister, re-wrote the record book in the gross singles with a phenomenal 823. He also topped the net division with 733, assuming, of course, the scores held up today. The chances that they wouldn't were extremely remote.

As the tournament went into its final hours, with the five-man championships already in the record books, here were the leaders in each division:

Five-Man Gross—Fromer Amocos, Kingston, 3249.

Five-Man Net—Wagner - Adler, New York, 3219.

Gross Doubles—Dean Place and Warren McPherson, Elmira, 1407.

Net Doubles—Bill Hansly-John Bomba, New York, 1346.

Gross Singles—Eugene Hoffmeister, Rome, 823.

Net Singles—Eugene Hoffmeister, Rome, 733.

Gross All-Events—Ted Richardson, Hudson, 2066.

Net All-Events—Vito Caloia, Syracuse, 1961.

Kingston Teams Fared Well

Kingston keglers did not distinguish themselves in the singles and doubles action, but they made a fine haul in the team events.

Alpine finished in second place behind Fromer's with 3243 in the net division for a $1,200 prize, while Hymes Shoes were in ninth position with 3193. All three teams were among the first five in the net division, but, according to the state rules they will draw their money from the gross division.

The rules stipulate a team or individual that crashes both the gross and net prize fund is entitled to the highest share—normally in the gross—but the net winners are recognized as state championships. Both net and gross scores are rewarded with medals.

Fromer keglers who had sweated through several weeks of tournament play would have been scared stiff had they happened to be in the alleys Saturday night.

The May's Grill keglers of Lackawanna, a 90-pin handicap per game team, opened with a powerful 1118 gross score and followed with 1086. Needing only 1046 gross to go into first place, the upstaters stumbled in the closing frames and settled for 3200 on the nose, good for 8th position.

The May's Grill anchor, Elmer Luvender, faded to 158 in the stretch after opening blasts of 233 and 224 and that hurt his team's chances materially.

Fromer's 3249 withstood heavy assaults in the closing weekend—which was one of the heaviest scoring since the tournament opened on Wednesday, April 20.

There were four teams in the "3100" bracket; 10 of "3000" or better and 24 in the 2900-pius money brackets.

The 55-day tenpin marathon attracted the fourth highest entry on record and paid out nearly $80,000 in prize money.

HERE THEY ARE! THE NEW STATE GROSS CHAMPIONS!

Fromer Amocos, the team of destiny, wrote the first Kingston name into the state gross five-man team record book with a rousing 3249 score that won first place prize of $1500.00. They posted an actual 3105, second only to the Wagner-Adler 3219 count. Personnel of the squad, sponsored by C. A. "Bud" Fromer, of trotting fame, which won the first state crown in local history, included, left to right: Joe Schrowang, who holds the all-time local high series of 771; Dick Howard, Jackie Ferraro, Tom Amato, captain; and Tom Carlino. NEW YORK CITY ACES CAPTURE NET TITLE

The Wagner-Adler Highskores of New York's Met Major set an all-time state tournament record of 3219 in winning the net division. And they rolled it on alleys 5 and 6, the so-called tough drives at the Bowlodrome. Team personnel, left to right, Lou Campi, Graz Castellano, who shot 726, Frank "Slim" Okular, 1951 state all-events kingpin, Al Faragalli and Joe Brown. (Freeman Photo)

Middletown High School's brilliant thinclads ran away from the field to capture the DUSO League track crown, Saturday at municipal stadium.

Coach John Nania's undefeated forces piled up 40½ points for a 15-point margin over runnerup Newburgh Free Academy in a meet featured by two new league records.

The Point Totals

Middletown High, 40½
Newburgh Academy, 25½
Port Jervis High, 23
Monticello High, 20½
Kingston High, 19
Poughkeepsie High, 13½
Liberty High, 1

Maroon Wins Two

Kingston High which had dominated the meet for several years got exactly what was expected—a first in the high jump and the 440-yard relay. Only Koenig was an out and out favorite in his specialty but Coach Kias' relay team overshadowed the field in a 46.5 performance.

Ronald "Muzzy" Wright, Poughkeepsie High's ponderous all-round schoolboy star, set a new record in the javelin with a toss of 170 feet 3¾ inches. The former record was set by Charles Barber of Port Jervis at 169 feet 6½ inches in 1948.

Roger Gilbert, a pint-sized package of dynamite from Port Jervis, shattered the 440-yard record with a 51.9 clocking. The old mark of 52.4 was established by Reggie Lockwood of Newburgh Free Academy in 1939. Gilbert opened with a burst of speed and maintained a blistering pace throughout. When the railbirds expected him to crack on the turn at the head of the stretch, he fooled them by uncorking a tremendous kick in the last 25 yards to outdistance Kingston's Harry Craft who ran a nice race.

Fast in Sprints

As was expected the Middies dominated the sprints, with Larry Scarzafava reeling off the century in 10.4 and Nino Marcello winning the 220 in 23.5 seconds.

The Schuerholtz brothers—Frank and Pete—duplicated their one-two finish of the Orange county meet—with Frank breaking the tape first in the 880 in the excellent time of 2:03.2. The DUSO record was set by Kingston's immortal Ed McCardle in 2:02.2 in 1947.

The Middies picked up two firsts in the field events. Ray Sedelmeyer upset the favored Jim Rhoades of Port Jervis with a toss of 128 feet 11¼ inches in the discus and Whitby leaped 19 feet 6 inches for first in the running broad jump.

Koenig Tops Field

Koenig was off by himself in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 10¾ inches, not too far off his all-time KHS record of 5 feet 11½ inches. Gardner of Poughkeepsie and L'Estrange of Newburgh were tied for second place at 5 feet 6 inches. Koenig just missed six feet in competition against himself after the event was over.

Webster Henderson got the Maroon relay squad off to a flyifng start. Charlie Johnson, A. Miller and Orv Giles carried on through a blazing finish. Newburgh came on fast in the last exchange of batons and apparently finished second. However, the Goldbacks were disqualified for having a runner out of his lane and second place went to Monticello.

Bobby Spreer, bigger of the Spreer brothers, propelled himself to 10 feet 6 inches in the pole vault. He barely missed at 11 feet after the event was terminated.

1951 Champions Hit 2997 Gross

Cortland VFW, 1951 state champions in the net division, failed to repeat in its bid for the state crown Saturday night. The upstaters shot a respectable 2862 net and 2997, good for a slice of the prize money, but a far cry from their 1951 performance at Elmira when they grabbed the net crown with 2980. They showed two flashy performers in John Partigianoni, a 203-average leadoff, who shot 598 and Ed Morrison, 200-average anchor, who led the squad with 630.

Forty Teams Crash Week-end Prize List

Forty teams crashed the prize list in the team division of the state tournament in weekend shooting that started Friday night, but the important thing, from a Kingston standpoint, was that only one team came close to Fromer Amoco's 3249.

The hard hitting May's Grill of Lackawanna, hard by Buffalo, blasted an 1118 and 1086 in their first two sets and seemed to be headed for a major upset.

But like at least a dozen other squads since April 3, they tightened up in the stretch and settled for runner-up scores. This time it was 3200 on the nose.

The May's socked 2930 net, one of the best scores in the tournament, and the last three men posted 600, 644 and 615 respectively.

Oswald Meats of Buffalo toppled 3140 sticks for second honors in the final week of play. They netted 2702 and had 438-pins handicap.

Teams in the "3100" gross division included Draco's Restaurant, Pulaski, with 3118; Nu-Tone Radio, Rochester, 3115; and Oh Johnnie's, Suffern, 3108.

Ten others rolled into the "3000" groove and a total of 40 were in the prize money with 2935 or better.

1952 STATE SINGLES CHAMPION

Eugene "Wink" Hoffmeister, of Rome, is the new state singles champion in both the net and gross division, unless he was disturbed on the 1:15 p. m. squad today. Hoffmeister startled the state bowling world with a phenomenal 823 gross and 733, not bad for a guy who averages only 159 in two Rome leagues. He is shown reading the teletype report of his spectacular accomplishment in the teletype room of his homtown newspaper, the Rome Daily Sentinel. (Rome Sentinel Photo)

Driver to Challenge Pronto Don July 4

Goshen—If history repeats at Historic Track, driver Benny Schue of the Hayes Fair Acres Stable, Du Quoin, Ill., will have quite a time on Friday, July 4.

It was a year ago at Historic that driver Schue blazed home to win three of the four Fourth of July races.

There were a lot of racing fans riding with Benny that day, for he wore the patriotic red, white and blue colors.

Houtteman, Dickson and Hooper Rate as '52's Tough Luck Guys

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Art Houtteman, Murry Dickson and Bob Hooper are running neck-and-neck for hard-luck-of-year hurling honors.

At the moment, Houttleman is in the fore. The young Detroit twirler dropped a heart-breaker yesterday, losing a 1-0 decision to Marv Grissom as the Chicago White Sox shut out Detroit. Veteran Joe Dobson outpiched Virgil Trucks, 3-0, in the first game of the double-header.

Hooper also went down 1-0 as the Philadelphia Athletics were held to a split by Washington. The A's drew first blood, defeating the Senators, 2-1, as Bobby Schantz turned in a six-hitter to become the first American League pitcher to win seven games. Lefty Lou Sleater got Washington even, however, edging out Hooper in the ninth when Pete Runnels drove in the only run of the game with a single that scored Jim Busby.

Wilks Fizzles

Dickson, Pittsburgh's gritty righthander, was within one out of registering his first triumph since April 30—and only his second of the year—but a two-out home run by Dee Fondy with a man on base in the ninth inning dashed Murry's hopes. The blow came off Dickson's reliever, Ted Wilks, and gave the Chicago Cubs a 5-4 win over the Pirates.

Cleveland earned a split with the St. Louis Browns, winning the nightcap, 6-2, after Rogers Hornsby's men had taken the opener, 7-5. The split left the front-running Indians still three games ahead of Washington and the Boston Red Sox, now tied for second place.

In the only other action, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 7-6, when Tommy Glaviano drove home Del Rice with a double in the seventh inning. Rain washed out the second game. The elements also postponed games between the New York Yankees and Red Sox, Brooklyn and Philadelphia and the Boston Braves and New York Giants.

Four by One Run

The only run Houtteman gave up resulted from a wild pitch. That came in the first inning and scored Al Zarilla who had tripled with one out. Grissom, a former Tiger, surrendered only three hits for his first victory. Houtteman's record is 3-6. Four of his defeats have been by one run.

Dickson was not charged with yesterday's defeat, as Fondy's homer came off Wilks, who had relieved Murry in the eighth. Dickson stood to be the winner, however, as he left with a 4-3 lead. Murry, a 20-game winner in 1951, has dropped seven of eight decisions. His losses include two shutouts, two by one-run margins and two by two runs.

Hooper hasn't won a game while losing four. The A's have tallied only two runs for him in those four games. His defeats were 1-0, 3-0, 5-0 and 5-1.

At St. Louis, Duane Pillette, Brownie righthander, gave up three homers to Cleveland in the opener but won his fifth game with the help of Satchell Paige in the ninth. A pair of four-baggers by Dick Kryhoski, good for four runs, were the big Brownie blows.

Al Rosen's three-run homer in the seventh—his 10th round-tripper of the season—gave the Indians a split and enabled rookie Sam Jones to notch his second triumph.

Chez-Wiltwyck Slated Tuesday In City League

Rain continued to raise havoc with City Baseball League hopes for a fast getaway Sunday, when Jupe Pluvius horned in on a scheduled contest for the third straight time since the May 18 inaugural.

Yesterday's washout postponed the Colonial Merchant unveiling until Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. when they meet Boulevard Gulf. They were scheduled to play Chez Emile Sunday.

League officials hope to resume play Tuesday evening with a standout attraction between Chez Emile and Wiltwyck Motors.

The Chezzies are the only club in the league with a victory to date—in the opener with Jones Dairy—and will be out to make it two straight.

Manager Joe Hoffman has Big Jack Watzka and Artie Barnes primed for the speedy Highland aggregation. Gus McCormick is the probable Wiltwyck choice.

An important meeting of managers and league officials will be held at the secretary's booth after Tuesday's game. All managers are requested to attend.

CYO Organizes Four-Team Girls Softball League

Four teams will take their first swings in the newly-organized CYO Metropolitan Girls Softball League which opens its schedule on Tuesday at 7 p. m.

The four teams entered in the first year of competition are St. Mary's, St. Peter's, St. Joseph's and a group to be known as the All Saints.

Girls up to 18 years of age are eligible for the league.

The Recreation Department has designated three parks for league games— Block, Hutton and Hasbrouck.

The Tuesday openers pit St. Mary's against St. Joseph's at Hutton Park and St. Peter's against the All Saints at Hasbrouck Park.

It has been announced that the county CYO sports council is setting up a Little League for girls softball of grammar school age. Tentative teams are St. Mary's, Immaculate Conception, St. Peter's and St. Joseph's with Saturday afternoon games to be played at local parks.

THIS WAS NO SPORTING TRICK

Jimmy Morgan, the old-time baseball star, who has turned to bowling in his mellow years, seems quite calm above. But the space he is occupying above once housed a pane of glass at his Cornell street tavern. That is, until a culprit hurled a concrete block through it several nights ago. "That bird must have been real thirsty," said Jim with a philosophical calm. (Freeman Photo)

Eastern U. S. Olympic Boxing Tourney Set Tonight at Albany's Hawkins Stadium

The greatest array of amateur boxing talent ever gathered in this section will start bidding for trips to Helsinki, Finland, tonight when the Eastern United States Olympic tourney begins in Hawkins Stadium at 7 o'clock.

Five National AAU champions and a long list of Golden Gloves intercollegiate and service titleholders head the list of more than 100 mittslingers entered in the two-day fisticuff carnival.

The national champions include Billy Hill, the 112-pound king from Washington, D. C., who has won 27 out of 29 fights; Andy Anderson of Quonset Point, R. I., the experienced 147-pound titleholder, who is a seven year Navy veteran; Ernest Anthony of New York city, 156-pounder, who captured the Sugar Ray Robinson trophy as the best amateur in New York city before taking the national crown; Floyd Patterson, 165-pounder from New York city, who is rated one of the best prospect in simon-pure ranks, and Eldridge Thompson of Washington, 178-pounder, who was the only former champion to regain a title in the national meet in Boston in April.

A team of All-Navy champions, which has been coached by the famous Spike Webb at Annapolis, and a team of Army stars, which has been training at Fort Jay, also stand out in the star-studded field.

The Golden Glovers district titleholders and intercollegiate aces are too numerous to mention but many of them are capable of causing upsets in the Eastern meet.

Despite the array of talent, however, many capital district boys rate chances of copping berths in the U. S. Olympic finals in Kansas City, the reward that will go to champions crowned in Hawkins Stadium.

The district darkhorses include Vince Salvati of Troy, the 1951 Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves 147-pound champion, who is entered with the Bainbridge Naval Station team; Freddie Jackson of Troy, the Adirondack AAU 119-pound Gloves titleholder; Bob Middleton of Schenectady, the district heavyweight king, and Johnny Gibson of Albany, the All-National Service Champion in 1951, who will seek honors in the 156-pound class.

Houtteman, Dickson and Hooper Rate as '52's Tough Luck Guys

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Art Houtteman, Murry Dickson and Bob Hooper are running neck-and-neck for hard-luck-of-year hurling honors.

At the moment, Houttleman is in the fore. The young Detroit twirler dropped a heart-breaker yesterday, losing a 1-0 decision to Marv Grissom as the Chicago White Sox shut out Detroit. Veteran Joe Dobson outpiched Virgil Trucks, 3-0, in the first game of the double-header.

Hooper also went down 1-0 as the Philadelphia Athletics were held to a split by Washington. The A's drew first blood, defeating the Senators, 2-1, as Bobby Schantz turned in a six-hitter to become the first American League pitcher to win seven games. Lefty Lou Sleater got Washington even, however, edging out Hooper in the ninth when Pete Runnels drove in the only run of the game with a single that scored Jim Busby.

Wilks Fizzles

Dickson, Pittsburgh's gritty righthander, was within one out of registering his first triumph since April 30—and only his second of the year—but a two-out home run by Dee Fondy with a man on base in the ninth inning dashed Murry's hopes. The blow came off Dickson's reliever, Ted Wilks, and gave the Chicago Cubs a 5-4 win over the Pirates.

Cleveland earned a split with the St. Louis Browns, winning the nightcap, 6-2, after Rogers Hornsby's men had taken the opener, 7-5. The split left the front-running Indians still three games ahead of Washington and the Boston Red Sox, now tied for second place.

In the only other action, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 7-6, when Tommy Glaviano drove home Del Rice with a double in the seventh inning. Rain washed out the second game. The elements also postponed games between the New York Yankees and Red Sox, Brooklyn and Philadelphia and the Boston Braves and New York Giants.

Four by One Run

The only run Houtteman gave up resulted from a wild pitch. That came in the first inning and scored Al Zarilla who had tripled with one out. Grissom, a former Tiger, surrendered only three hits for his first victory. Houtteman's record is 3-6. Four of his defeats have been by one run.

Dickson was not charged with yesterday's defeat, as Fondy's homer came off Wilks, who had relieved Murry in the eighth. Dickson stood to be the winner, however, as he left with a 4-3 lead. Murry, a 20-game winner in 1951, has dropped seven of eight decisions. His losses include two shutouts, two by one-run margins and two by two runs.

Hooper hasn't won a game while losing four. The A's have tallied only two runs for him in those four games. His defeats were 1-0, 3-0, 5-0 and 5-1.

At St. Louis, Duane Pillette, Brownie righthander, gave up three homers to Cleveland in the opener but won his fifth game with the help of Satchell Paige in the ninth. A pair of four-baggers by Dick Kryhoski, good for four runs, were the big Brownie blows.

Al Rosen's three-run homer in the seventh—his 10th round-tripper of the season—gave the Indians a split and enabled rookie Sam Jones to notch his second triumph.

THIS WAS NO SPORTING TRICK

Jimmy Morgan, the old-time baseball star, who has turned to bowling in his mellow years, seems quite calm above. But the space he is occupying above once housed a pane of glass at his Cornell street tavern. That is, until a culprit hurled a concrete block through it several nights ago. "That bird must have been real thirsty," said Jim with a philosophical calm. (Freeman Photo)

Eastern U. S. Olympic Boxing Tourney Set Tonight at Albany's Hawkins Stadium

The greatest array of amateur boxing talent ever gathered in this section will start bidding for trips to Helsinki, Finland, tonight when the Eastern United States Olympic tourney begins in Hawkins Stadium at 7 o'clock.

Five National AAU champions and a long list of Golden Gloves intercollegiate and service titleholders head the list of more than 100 mittslingers entered in the two-day fisticuff carnival.

The national champions include Billy Hill, the 112-pound king from Washington, D. C., who has won 27 out of 29 fights; Andy Anderson of Quonset Point, R. I., the experienced 147-pound titleholder, who is a seven year Navy veteran; Ernest Anthony of New York city, 156-pounder, who captured the Sugar Ray Robinson trophy as the best amateur in New York city before taking the national crown; Floyd Patterson, 165-pounder from New York city, who is rated one of the best prospect in simon-pure ranks, and Eldridge Thompson of Washington, 178-pounder, who was the only former champion to regain a title in the national meet in Boston in April.

A team of All-Navy champions, which has been coached by the famous Spike Webb at Annapolis, and a team of Army stars, which has been training at Fort Jay, also stand out in the star-studded field.

The Golden Glovers district titleholders and intercollegiate aces are too numerous to mention but many of them are capable of causing upsets in the Eastern meet.

Despite the array of talent, however, many capital district boys rate chances of copping berths in the U. S. Olympic finals in Kansas City, the reward that will go to champions crowned in Hawkins Stadium.

The district darkhorses include Vince Salvati of Troy, the 1951 Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves 147-pound champion, who is entered with the Bainbridge Naval Station team; Freddie Jackson of Troy, the Adirondack AAU 119-pound Gloves titleholder; Bob Middleton of Schenectady, the district heavyweight king, and Johnny Gibson of Albany, the All-National Service Champion in 1951, who will seek honors in the 156-pound class.

Finis at Yonkers

Yonkers, May 26 (AP)—The gold mine—otherwise known as Yonkers Raceway—has concluded its most succesful harness racing program in history. The 33-night meet, which ended Saturday night, attracted 650,354 spectators, who wagered $36,465,078. The average nightly attendance was 20,324 and the average wagering was $1,139,534.

Racing at Roosevelt

Westbury, N. Y., May 26 (AP)—Roosevelt Raceway launches its 108-night harness racing season tonight with a total of $400,000 offered in stakes. A field of seven, headed by Thomas B. Scott, will go postward in the opening night's feature, the $5,700 Inaugural Purse.

New Paltz Shows Good Form in Sprints To Shade KHS Jayvees in Track, 56-55

Dominating the running events, New Paltz High edged the KHS track Jayvees, 56-55, in a spirited dual meet Thursday on the New Paltz cinders.

The New Paltz thinclads captured every running event except the 18-yard low hurdles but the Maroons flashed good to form in the field events to leave the issue in doubt until the final event.

Jack Grey swept the 100 and 220 dashes for the home forces in 10.7 and 25.2. Cody picked up a third for KHS in the century and Harold Miller was third in the 220.

Kingston swept the low hurdles with Fred Jankowski romping home ahead of Charlie Murphy and Coutant. Jankowski was clocked in 24.8 seconds.

Bucky Miller scored a double for the Maroon, leaping 18 feet ½ inch in the broad jump and 5 feet 4 inches in the high jump. Jim Colclough and Brandt helped helped Kingston to a sweep of the high jump.

McGreevey of Kingston and Rost of New Paltz tied at 8 feet in the pole vault.

After Louis deOnis raced home in 59.2 seconds to capture the 440 yard sprint, John Jeanneney gave New Paltz a first in the 880 in a 2:18.1 clocking. This was somewhat under his track record of 2:13.5 which he set last Saturday in a triangular meet involving New Paltz, Cardinal Farley and Arlington. The latter school won with 77 2/3 points.

Bob Caron of New Paltz won the javelin with a toss of 129 feet 10 inches.

The summaries:

100 yard dash—Won by Gray, NP; second, Tosti, NP; third, Cody, K. Time—10.7 seconds.

Truelove Cops Rhinebeck '25'

In what proved to be the wildest meet to date in the weekly Saturday night stock car racing at the Rhinebeck Speedway, Russ Truelove won the postponed 25-lap feature and after all six qualifying events were completed "Jupe Pluvius" again halted the regular program for the third straight week.

Truelove, a Waterbury, Conn., insurance salesman, grabbed first position midway in the thrilling first feature race after erasing threats from Jerry Golden, Warren Bohnsack and "Bad Boy" Charlie Barry on the rain-swept oval.

The remaining six races on the slippery track were fast with many skids, fender bending and wall grazing keeping the fans in suspense in every event.

Jack Nichols of Carmel, N. Y., piloted the new Ace of Hearts to first place in its maiden race, the first qualifying heat.

The appearance of veteran Roscoe "Pappy" Hough, nationally known contestant and 1951 NASCAR Short Track Grand National Champion, further spiced the program. Hough won the third heat battling through heavy traffic for the victory.

Superlative driving marked the last semi-final when Jerry Golden in a calculated risk from last starting position passed the pack on the greasy outside rim to win first money and the plaudits of the crowd.

Just before the second feature was scheduled to start a representative from the drivers decided the track was becoming hazardous and the feature was delayed for a week.

Next Saturday night's program will feature two main events. The first race starting at 8:30 p. m. will be the postponed feature plus six preliminary races and a second 25-lap event.

New Paltz Shows Good Form in Sprints To Shade KHS Jayvees in Track, 56-55

Truelove Cops Rhinebeck '25'

In what proved to be the wildest meet to date in the weekly Saturday night stock car racing at the Rhinebeck Speedway, Russ Truelove won the postponed 25-lap feature and after all six qualifying events were completed "Jupe Pluvius" again halted the regular program for the third straight week.

Truelove, a Waterbury, Conn., insurance salesman, grabbed first position midway in the thrilling first feature race after erasing threats from Jerry Golden, Warren Bohnsack and "Bad Boy" Charlie Barry on the rain-swept oval.

The remaining six races on the slippery track were fast with many skids, fender bending and wall grazing keeping the fans in suspense in every event.

Jack Nichols of Carmel, N. Y., piloted the new Ace of Hearts to first place in its maiden race, the first qualifying heat.

The appearance of veteran Roscoe "Pappy" Hough, nationally known contestant and 1951 NASCAR Short Track Grand National Champion, further spiced the program. Hough won the third heat battling through heavy traffic for the victory.

Superlative driving marked the last semi-final when Jerry Golden in a calculated risk from last starting position passed the pack on the greasy outside rim to win first money and the plaudits of the crowd.

Just before the second feature was scheduled to start a representative from the drivers decided the track was becoming hazardous and the feature was delayed for a week.

Next Saturday night's program will feature two main events. The first race starting at 8:30 p. m. will be the postponed feature plus six preliminary races and a second 25-lap event.

Dominating the running events, New Paltz High edged the KHS track Jayvees, 56-55, in a spirited dual meet Thursday on the New Paltz cinders.

The New Paltz thinclads captured every running event except the 18-yard low hurdles but the Maroons flashed good to form in the field events to leave the issue in doubt until the final event.

Jack Grey swept the 100 and 220 dashes for the home forces in 10.7 and 25.2. Cody picked up a third for KHS in the century and Harold Miller was third in the 220.

Kingston swept the low hurdles with Fred Jankowski romping home ahead of Charlie Murphy and Coutant. Jankowski was clocked in 24.8 seconds.

Bucky Miller scored a double for the Maroon, leaping 18 feet ½ inch in the broad jump and 5 feet 4 inches in the high jump. Jim Colclough and Brandt helped helped Kingston to a sweep of the high jump.

McGreevey of Kingston and Rost of New Paltz tied at 8 feet in the pole vault.

After Louis deOnis raced home in 59.2 seconds to capture the 440 yard sprint, John Jeanneney gave New Paltz a first in the 880 in a 2:18.1 clocking. This was somewhat under his track record of 2:13.5 which he set last Saturday in a triangular meet involving New Paltz, Cardinal Farley and Arlington. The latter school won with 77 2/3 points.

Bob Caron of New Paltz won the javelin with a toss of 129 feet 10 inches.

Central Plans Bargain Rides for Children

New York, May 26 (AP)—The new Central System plans bargain rates for family travel on an experimental basis this summer.

The plan calls for children under 12 to ride free and children 12 through 15 to ride at half fare under conditions set forth in an announcement yesterday.

The new rates will apply only to coach travel and will be available only for children accompanied on a round-trip by a parent who buys a ticket costing $3.45 or more, including tax.

Present standard practice on railroads is to carry children under 5 free and children 5 to 12 for half-fare.

The trial period is from June 25 to Oct. 22 on the Central's 11,000 mile system.

Guam has been a U.S. possession since 1898.

Hold Dental Clinics In West Hurley Soon

A series of dental clinics for pre-school children from three to five will be held in the West Hurley school June 2-6 and June 9, it was announced today by Dr. Robert H. Broad, Ulster County Commissioner of Health.

Appointment may be made at the clinic for the application of sodium fluoride to the child's teeth. A series of four applications is made. Parents interested in having their children attend the clinic should telephone Mrs. G. A. Nussbaum at Kingston 501-M2, preferably mornings.

Kangaroo for Truman

Sydney, Australia, May 26 (AP)—"Miss," a 14-month-old albino kangaroo—the only one in captivity—left by plane today to meet President Truman. She will get the rest of her name when she gets to America.

Assurance Is Given

Tokyo, May 26 (AP)—The United States assured the Japanese government today American soldiers will not use the summit of sacred Mt. Fuji for military purposes. The statement was made at a meeting of the U. S.-Japan security pact implementation committee. The newspaper Asahi reported yesterday that Americans wanted their drill ground on the northeastern slopes of Fuji to include the summit, with Japanese climbers barred.
